Twenty-nine head of pure-bred Jersey cattle, four mules, a dozen pigs and 200 chickens perished Tuesday afternoon when flames leveled the big bank barn on the property of E. Brough farm, tenanted by the owner's son-in-law, Arthur Livingston, three miles northwest of York Springs in Lawrence township.

The barn, described as one of the largest and best equipped in its part of the county, was burned to the ground along with the grain, hay and straw and all of the farm machinery it contained. A truckload of fertilizer placed in the barn earlier in the afternoon also was consumed.

Long Hose Line
The dwelling house, which caught fire twice, and several outbuildings were saved by the efforts of fire companies from York Springs, Dillsburg and Franklintown. Hose lines stretched 1,200 feet to Latimore creek as firemen devoted their attention to saving other buildings.

When they found the barn and hog pen in full blaze when they arrived. Cause of the fire was not known.

Livingston had been in the barn a short time before when the fire started. He was unloaded and then had to leave the testing of a herd of cattle. When he reached those buildings, saw smoke and flames pouring from his own barn. The York Springs company received the alarm about 2 o'clock.

Total loss was estimated at "more than $15,000," the owners told York Springs firemen. There was some insurance. The livestock and machinery belonged to Mr. Livingston. The buildings were the property of Mr. Brough.

Four Hogs Saved
Some members of the Livingston family and neighbors attempted to save some of the livestock but the heat and smoke were too intense and they had to abandon the effort. They freed two mules which would leave the stable and trying to reach success to drive several of the cattle to safety. Four hogs were saved.

The barn, which measured 102 x 100 feet, contained potato digging and cultivating machines, a grain drill and other farm equipment. Some machinery was stored in other buildings and was not lost.

Firemen stayed at the scene until 9 o'clock Tuesday evening and made arrangements to have the burning barn, known in that section as the Bonner farm, was formerly owned by the late James G. Stover. Mr. Brough resides on a nearby farm.

The barn fire was the second in the York Springs company. It occurred Tuesday afternoon. About 10 o'clock the fire was called in the rough where they carried out a kerosene stove. No damage is reported.

Five minutes after the firemen returned to the engine house, they received the call to the Brough farm.

As the Zeroes closed in, Meyer lifted his guns bodily, braced them against his right hip and fought off the attackers for 20 minutes. His hips and torso were a mass of bruises but he went out a couple of days later on a strike against Biak Island.

Eat More Bacon, Eggs Urges WFA

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—If you want to be patriotic, you'd better start making bacon and eggs a principal part of your diet. Aimed at encouraging consumption rather than conservation of those two food items, an eat-more-eggs campaign beginning May 27 was hatched today by the War Food Administration and the National Poultry Defense Committee.

The WFA estimates there is a current surplus of more than 10,000,000 dozen eggs in Pennsylvania warehouses alone. There is so much bacon in storage that many meat brokers doubt it can ever be consumed.

Meantime, no tapering-off in egg production is in sight. The state Agriculture Department reports egg production in April set a new all-time record for the month with Pennsylvania hens and pullets laying 312 million eggs or 23 million more than in April last year.

COUNTY WOMAN BADLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Seven persons were injured, one seriously, and damage was estimated at $750 in a head-on collision of automobiles at 8:30 o'clock Monday night on the Pine Grove Furnace-Caledonia road, 1½ miles north of Caledonia. State police are continuing the investigation.

Mrs. Mary Wenk, 88, gardeners, was said to be in an "unfavorable" condition with internal injuries at the Chambersburg hospital, where all the injured were taken for treatment.

Mrs. Wenk was riding in an automobile driven by her son-in-law, Mervin Heller, 60, of Pine Grove Furnace, who State police said, told them he was blinded by the lights on an oncoming car and his auto moved to the left of the center of the highway on a curve.

Others Injured
Other passengers in the Heller car and their injuries were: Mrs. Bertha Heller, 58, wife of the driver, laceration of the left ear; Miss Mary Heller, 25, laceration above the left eye and a fracture of the right wrist; Leslie M. Heller Starr, 2, bump on the forehead.

The second vehicle, containing three Chambersburg youths who had attended a meeting of the Hi-Y organization in Pine Grove Furnace, as representatives of the Chambersburg high school units, was driven by John Harvey Allen. He received abrasions of the knee and a bruise of the forehead. Other passengers in the Allen car and their injuries were: Richard Blair, 17, lacerations of the scalp and right arm; Walter Oliver, lacerations of the right leg. The three youths returned to their homes after being treated in the hospital dispensary.

In reporting the total estimated damage of $750 to the two cars, State police said that the Heller car was the most seriously damaged.

Gets Degree From Temple On Thursday

Thelma E. Heller, of Aspers, will be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education from Temple university, on Thursday. It will mark the second May commencement in the 60-year history of the university. The class will be the smallest in several years due to the men students in the armed services, and also separate graduation in the professional schools under the university's stepped-up wartime schedule.

Arnold Blasts War Strikes

Washington, May 16 (AP)—General H. H. Arnold testified today the Detroit foremen's strike was "one of the most serious setbacks the air force has had since its inception" and, if continued, might enable the German air force to "recover just when it is feeling under our blows."

Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Force, told a War Labor Board hearing on the strike that it might require him to change his time-table for destruction of critical industries in Germany and might cost the lives of bombing crews through lack of sufficient fighter plane protection.

"We of the military forces," he declared, "are not interested in the relative merits of the dispute, but it is inconceivable from our point of view how you can have strikes which stop war production on materials which are so essential they may even stop operations in connection with the bombings in Germany."

LOCAL CAPTAIN ASKS PEACE IN FREEDOM'S NAME

Hailing the spirit and sacrifice of Allied heroes who have given their lives sacrificially in Europe and the Pacific, Capt. Robert D. Hanson, company commander of an anti-tank unit at Fort Dix, New Jersey, declared in an address at the annual DAR assembly at the Gettysburg high school this morning: "Let's make the sort of peace that the men who have given their lives for freedom down through the ages have dreamed of. Let us so live that they shall not have died in vain."

Speaking on the theme, "The

CAPTAIN HANSON

Price of Freedom." Captain Hanson, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson and an alumnus of the local high school, traced the growth of the cause of free men from its inception in the city states of Greece 2,500 years ago.

He drew a parallel between the stand of the Spartans at Thermopylae and the men of the RAF during the blitz of London, the torpedo bombers that stopped the Jap fleet off Midway and never returned and the men of Bataan and Corregidor. "The sacrifices of those bands of heroes gave their nations a chance to survive," he pointed out.

Free Men's Courage
"Hitler has failed to learn the fact that you can kill free men but you can't enslave them," the speaker asserted. "The Japs made a mistake too. They thought Americans were too rich, too soft, too cultured, too easy going and too Christian to fight. They forgot that a people who gave birth to a Washington, a Lincoln and a Lee would not de-

CALL COUNTIANS TO PRAYER ON 'INVASION DAY'

Residents of Biglerville may join with people throughout the nation in a period of prayer when the invasion of the European continent by the Allied forces begins, it was learned today.

The pastors of the Biglerville churches, the Rev. H. W. Sternat, the Rev. H. O. Sipe and the Rev. Nevin Frantz are meeting this afternoon to work out plans to spread the news of the invasion and to immediately open the churches for prayers for the success of the battle and the safety of the men taking part.

While plans are incomplete it is expected that a program whereby one person will call another, similar to the air raid warning set-up to spread the word. Church bells will be rung and factory whistles blown to notify the people that the invasion has started and to call them to the prayer service.

Painfully Clear

Los Angeles, May 17 (AP)—Superior Judge Leon R. Yankwich asked the panel of veniremen if they knew any reason why they could not sit as jurors.

"Yes," spoke up one of the group, Paul J. McDonald, engineer, and the judge asked why. "My friends told me the smart thing to do was to get a box of bees and raise my own honey," McDonald explained. "I got a big box. Next day my bees were gone. It seems they were looking for a place to swarm."

"Well, I bent over, with my head and shoulders in the bee box, looking for honey, when they came back, and—I hope your honor appreciates my position."

"Painfully clear," agreed the judge. "Excused."

GIVES REASONS FOR CHANGE IN SUGAR RATIONS

Ray M. Hoffman, chairman of the Gettysburg War Price and Rationing Board, today urged residents of western Adams county and Gettysburg to apply "for just enough sugar for your canning needs."

"There will be available for you up to 25 pounds of sugar for every person in your family, if you need that much," Mr. Hoffman said, "but please do not ask for that much if you do not need it, and please do not apply at all if you are not going to do any canning or preserving. This is a direct appeal to your American patriotism, based on what we know to be true, for if too heavy demands are made for sugar now, there will be none left when the late crops become available."

Cites Reasons
In a letter sent to most applicants for sugar Mr. Hoffman said: "Let me tell you briefly just why it was necessary to change the method of issuing sugar for home canning. When the program was first announced, applicants came into the local Boards all over the country long before the fruit was ripe for canning. It is almost unbelievable, but nearly every application was for the full 20 pound maximum and many had to be rejected. Certainly no one at that time knew how much fruit she was going to can, since no one knows, even now, how much the vines and trees are going to bear nor how much will reach the market for civilian use."

"If that rate had continued, the sugar allotted for home canning would have been distributed long before the late crops became available, and many people would possibly have used up their sugar for other purposes. Despite all you might have heard to the contrary, there is still not enough sugar in America to supply all of our wants, even though the supply picture looks brighter than it did in February and March. If there were plenty, we should not have to continue rationing sugar. We'd stop rationing sugar just as we stopped rationing coffee, if the supply should become adequate."

"Under the revised home canning plan, two periods are designated during which applications may be made. The first period for this district is from May 15 to July 15, 1944. The second period is from July 16 to October 31, 1944. These periods are based on the actual seasons when the most home canning is done."

"INVASION" BOND DRIVE PLANS TO BE LAID MONDAY

O. Howard Wolfe, executive manager of the Pennsylvania War Finance committee, will be the speaker Monday evening at an "Invasion" dinner for the members of the Adams County War Finance committee at the Hotel Gettysburg at 6:30 o'clock.

Designed to set in motion plans for the Fifth War Loan drive, "The Invasion War Loan Drive," for the county, the dinner will be marked by a resume of statistics of Adams county's participation in previous war loan drives, a discussion of how quotas are assigned to various counties and a report on the bonds and securities to be offered in the forthcoming drive by Mr. Wolfe.

Letters of invitation have been sent to the 235 members of the various War Finance sub-committees of the county and it is expected that most of the members will be present. Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the War Finance group, today announced that all members and committee chairmen are invited to the dinner. "With such a large number of invitations to send out, it is possible some committee members have been missed," Mr. Thomas said, "however I want all members to know that they are invited and we want them to come, whether or not they have received an invitation."

"The presence of every member of the committee is essential," the county chairman added. "This drive will be the Invasion Drive, in which we will back up the 3,000 countians in the armed forces and our nation's armies as they prepare for what is expected to be the most costly engagement of the war—the invasion of the European continent against the German armies."

The Invasion War Bond Drive will begin June 12 and extend to July 8, with the sale of Series E, F, and G bonds from June 1 to July 31 to be important in the quota.

Important Business
Mr. Wolfe is a past president of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association and a vice president of the Philadelphia National bank at present on leave to serve his country in the War Finance division. A First World War veteran, he was head of the Philadelphia office of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the Hoover administration, again on leave from his duties at the Philadelphia National bank. In addition to his talk he also plans to show motion pictures of the War Bond campaign.

He expects to leave Boston, Massachusetts, where his daughter is graduating from college on Sunday night in order to arrive here for the dinner Monday evening.

Mr. Thomas will preside at the dinner session which will be followed by a meeting at which "business of extreme importance to the success of the Fifth War Loan Drive will be discussed," it has been announced.

110 PERSONS ATTEND DINNER

One hundred and ten women attended the eighth annual Mothers' and Daughters' banquet of Grace Lutheran church, Two Taverns, held Tuesday evening in the parish hall, Harney, Maryland. The chicken dinner was served by the Ladies of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Harney.

The program opened with a toast to the mothers by Miss Jane Bowers, followed by a response from Mrs. Glenn Bowers. Mrs. Elmer Claibough and Miss Eleanor Motter sang a duet and Miss Viola Sachs presented a vocal solo. Mrs. Clarence Singley presented a reading; Miss Evelyn Weaver, a vocal solo; and Miss Betty Wherley, accordion selections.

Mrs. Kenneth D. James, Littlestown, was the speaker and Miss Evelyn Weaver the toastmistress. Mrs. Weikert acted as song leader with Mrs. Clarence Myers as accompanist. ## Sub Commander On Air Tonight; Fears Allayed

Lieut. Commander Richard O. Kane, in command of a submarine in the Pacific, will be interviewed on the radio tonight at 10:30 o'clock, over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Commander Kane is in command of a sub on which Lt. Commander Murray B. Frazee, husband of the former Miss Betty Swope, is the Executive Officer.

Some apprehension had been felt by Mrs. Frazee because she had not heard from her husband for some time, an unusual occurrence. However, Mrs. Kane telegraphed Mrs. Frazee this morning that her husband would be interviewed on the radio tonight, thus setting aside any fears that something may have happened to the submarine on which they were officers.

Weather Forecast

CATTLE, HOGS, MULES AND 200 CHICKENS LOST IN $15,000 FIRE

Twenty-nine head of pure-bred dairy cattle, four mules, a dozen hogs and 200 chickens perished Tuesday afternoon when flames leveled the big bank barn on the Harry E. Brough farm, tenanted by the owner's son-in-law, Arthur Livingston, three miles northwest of York Springs in Lawrence township.

The barn, described as one of the largest and best equipped in that part of the county, was burned to the ground along with the grain, hay and straw and all of the farm machinery it contained. A truckload of fertilizer placed in the barn earlier in the afternoon also was consumed.

Long Hose Line

The dwelling house, which caught fire twice, and several outbuildings were saved by the efforts of fire companies from York Springs, Dillsburg and Franklintown. Hose lines stretched 1,200 feet to Latimore creek as firemen devoted their attention to saving other buildings after they found the barn and hogs in full blaze when they arrived.

Cause of the fire was not known. Mr. Livingston had been in the barn a short time before when the fertilizer was unloaded and then had gone to a neighboring farm to help with the testing of a herd of cattle. When he reached those buildings, he saw smoke and flames pouring from his own barn. The York Springs company received the alarm about 2 o'clock.

Total loss was estimated at "more than $15,000," the owners told York Springs firemen. There was some insurance. The livestock and machinery belonged to Mr. Livingston while the buildings were the property of Mr. Brough.

Four Hogs Saved

Some members of the Livingston family and neighbors attempted to free some of the livestock but the heat and smoke were too intense and they had to abandon the effort after freeing two hogs which would not leave the stable and trying without success to drive several of the cattle to safety. Four hogs were saved.

The barn, which measured 102 x 62 feet, contained potato digging and cultivating machines, a grain binder and other farm equipment. Some machinery was stored in other buildings and was not lost.

Firemen stayed at the scene until 7 o'clock Tuesday evening and made arrangements to have the burning ruins watched during the night.

The farm, known in that section as the Bonner farm, was formerly owned by the late James G. Stover. Mr. Brough resides on a nearby farm.

The barn fire was the second alarm the York Springs company received Tuesday afternoon. About 1:30 o'clock they were called to the residence of Mrs. deNemeth in the borough where they carried out a blazing kerosene stove. No damage was reported.

Five minutes after the firemen returned to the engine house, they received the call to the Brough farm.

Mrs. Clayton A. Smucker, past president of the Harrisburg Women's Church and Missionary Federation, was the guest speaker. Her talk centered on the opportunities of organized Christian Women in the community, outlining work possible under such an organization.

Entertainment was furnished by a group of Gettysburg high school students who sang "Trees" and "The Bells of St. Mary's." The vocalists included Charlotte and Jane Winebrenner, Treva Munshower, Barbara Cline, Eloise Dillman and Janet Sachs. The accompaniments were played by Mary Clare Myers.

Eat More Bacon, Eggs Urges WFA

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—If you want to be patriotic, you'd better start making bacon and eggs a principal part of your diet.

Aimed at encouraging consumption rather than conservation of those two food items, an eat-more-eggs campaign beginning May 27 was hatched today by the War Food Administration and the National Poultry Defense Committee.

The WFA estimates there is a current surplus of more than 10,000,000 dozen eggs in Pennsylvania warehouses alone. There is so much bacon in storage that many meat brokers doubt it can ever be consumed.

Meantime, no tapering-off in egg production is in sight. The state Agriculture Department reports egg production in April set a new all-time record for the month with Pennsylvania hens and pullets laying 312 million eggs or 23 million more than in April last year.

COUNTY WOMAN BADLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Seven persons were injured, one seriously, and damage was estimated at $750 in a head-on collision of automobiles at 8:30 o'clock Monday night on the Pine Grove Furnace-Caledonia road, 1½ miles north of Caledonia. State police are continuing the investigation.

Mrs. Mary Wenk, 88, Gardners, was said to be in an "unfavorable" condition with internal injuries at the Chambersburg hospital, where all the injured were taken for treatment.

Mrs. Wenk was riding in an automobile driven by her son-in-law, Mervin Heller, 60, of Pine Grove Furnace, who State police said, told them he was blinded by the lights on an oncoming car and his auto moved to the left of the center of the highway on a curve.

Other passengers in the Heller car and their injuries were: Mrs. Bertha Heller, 58, wife of the driver, laceration of the left ear; Miss Mary Heller, 25, laceration above the left eye and a fracture of the right wrist; Leslie M. Heller, Starr, 2, bump on the forehead.

The second vehicle, containing three Chambersburg youths who had attended a meeting of the Hi-Y organization in Pine Grove Furnace, as representatives of the Chambersburg high school units, was driven by John Harvey Allen. He received abrasions of the knee and a bruise of the forehead. Other passengers in the Allen car and their injuries were: Richard Blair, 17, lacerations of the scalp and right arm; Walter Oliver, lacerations of the right leg. The three youths returned to their homes after being treated in the hospital dispensary.

In reporting the total estimated damage of $750 to the two cars, State police said that the Heller car was the most seriously damaged.

Gets Degree From Temple On Thursday

Thelma E. Heller, of Aspers, will be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education from Temple university, on Thursday.

It will mark the second May commencement in the 60-year history of the university. The class will be the smallest in several years due to the men students in the armed services, and also separate graduation in the professional schools under the university's stepped-up wartime schedule.

He's Sgt. Herbert A. Meyer, Jr., whose parents live at Orlando, Florida. Just now he's in a hospital with slashed hands. But he's recovering.

On a Thirteenth Army Airforce Liberator strike at Woleai in the Carolines, five Japanese fighters attacked his tail gun position. Meyer chased them off one-by-one until a 20 mm. shell hit the tail blister, knocking his twin guns off their mount. Meyer was stunned but uninjured.

As the Zeroes closed in, Meyer lifted his guns bodily, braced them against his right hip and fought off the attackers for 20 minutes. His hips and torso were a mass of bruises but he went out a couple of days later on a strike against Biak Island

LOCAL CAPTAIN ASKS PEACE IN FREEDOM'S NAME

Hailing the spirit and sacrifice of Allied heroes who have given their lives sacrificially in Europe and the Pacific, Capt. Robert D. Hanson, company commander of an anti-tank unit at Fort Dix, New Jersey, declared in an address at the annual DAR assembly at the Gettysburg high school this morning: "Let's make the sort of peace that the men who have given their lives for freedom down through the ages have dreamed of. Let us so live that they shall not have died in vain."

Speaking on the theme, "The

Price of Freedom," Captain Hanson, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson and an alumnus of the local high school, traced the growth of the cause of free men from its inception in the city states of Greece 2,500 years ago.

He drew a parallel between the stand of the Spartans at Thermopylae and the men of the RAF during the blitz of London, the torpedo bombers that stopped the Jap fleet off Midway and never returned and the men of Bataan and Corregidor. "The sacrifices of those bands of heroes gave their nations a chance to survive," he pointed out.

Free Men's Courage
"Hitler has failed to learn the fact that you can kill free men but you can't enslave them," the speaker asserted. "The Japs made a mistake too. They thought Americans were too rich, too soft, too cultured, too easy going and too Christian to fight. They forgot that a people who gave birth to a Washington, a Lincoln and a Lee would not de-

CALL COUNTIANS TO PRAYER ON 'INVASION DAY'

Residents of Biglerville may join with people throughout the nation in a period of prayer when the invasion of the European continent by the Allied forces begins, it was learned today.

The pastors of the Biglerville churches, the Rev. H. W. Sternat, the Rev. H. O. Sipe and the Rev. Nevin Frantz are meeting this afternoon to work out plans to spread the news of the invasion and to immediately open the churches for prayers for the success of the battle and the safety of the men taking part.

While plans are incomplete it is expected that a program whereby one person will call another, similar to the air raid warning set-up to spread the word. Church bells will be rung and factory whistles blown to notify the people that the invasion has started and to call them to the prayer service.

Arnold Blasts War Strikes
Washington, May 16 (AP)—General H. H. Arnold testified today the Detroit foremen's strike was "one of the most serious setbacks the air force has had since its inception" and, if continued, might enable the German air force to "recover just when it is reeling under our blows."

Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Force, told a War Labor Board hearing on the strike that it might require him to change his time-table for destruction of critical industries in Germany and might cost the lives of bombing crews through lack of sufficient fighter plane protection.

"We of the military forces," he declared, "are not interested in the relative merits of the dispute, but it is inconceivable from our point of view how you can have strikes which stop war production on materials which are so essential they may even stop operations in connection with the bombings in Germany."

Painfully Clear

Los Angeles, May 17 (AP)—Superior Judge Leon R. Yankwich asked the panel of veniremen if they knew any reason why they could not sit as jurors.

"Yes," spoke up one of the group, Paul J. McDonald, engineer, and the judge asked why. "My friends told me the smart thing to do was to get a box of bees and raise my own honey," McDonald explained. "I got a big box. Next day my bees were gone. It seems they were looking for a place to swarm."

"Well, I bent over, with my head and shoulders in the bee box, looking for honey, when they came back, and—I hope your honor appreciates my position."

"Painfully clear," agreed the judge. "Excused."

GIVES REASONS FOR CHANGE IN SUGAR RATIONS

Ray M. Hoffman, chairman of the Gettysburg War Price and Rationing Board, today urged residents of western Adams county and Gettysburg to apply "for just enough sugar for your canning needs."

"There will be available for you up to 25 pounds of sugar for every person in your family, if you need that much," Mr. Hoffman said, "but please do not ask for that much if you do not need it, and please do not apply at all if you are not going to do any canning or preserving. This is a direct appeal to your American patriotism, based on what we know to be true, for if too heavy demands are made for sugar now, there will be none left when the late crops become available."

Cites Reasons

In a letter sent to most applicants for sugar Mr. Hoffman said: "Let me tell you briefly just why it was necessary to change the method of issuing sugar for home canning. When the program was first announced, applicants came into the local Boards all over the country long before the fruit was ripe for canning. It is almost unbelievable, but nearly every application was for the full 20 pound maximum and many had to be rejected. Certainly no one at that time knew how much fruit she was going to can, since no one knows, even now, how much the vines and trees are going to bear nor how much will reach the market for civilian use."

"If that rate had continued, the sugar allotted for home canning would have been distributed long before the late crops became available, and many people would possibly have used up their sugar for other purposes. Despite all you might have heard to the contrary, there is, still not enough sugar in America to supply all of our wants, even though the supply picture looks brighter than it did in February and March. If there were plenty, we should not have to continue rationing sugar. We'd stop rationing sugar just as we stopped rationing coffee, if the supply should become adequate."

"Under the revised home canning plan, two periods are designated during which applications may be made. The first period for this district is from May 15 to July 15, 1944. The second period is from July 16 to October 31, 1944. These periods are based on the actual seasons when the most home canning is done."

"INVASION" BOND DRIVE PLANS TO BE LAID MONDAY

O. Howard Wolfe, executive manager of the Pennsylvania War Finance committee, will be the speaker Monday evening at an "Invasion" dinner for the members of the Adams County War Finance committee at the Hotel Gettysburg at 6:30 o'clock.

Designed to set in motion plans for the Fifth War Loan drive, "The Invasion War Loan Drive," for the county, the dinner will be marked by a resume of statistics of Adams county's participation in previous war loan drives, a discussion of how quotas are assigned to various counties and a report on the bonds and securities to be offered in the forthcoming drive by Mr. Wolfe.

Letters of invitation have been sent to the 235 members of the various War Finance sub-committees of the county and it is expected that most of the members will be present. Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the War Finance group, today announced that all members and committee chairmen are invited to the dinner. "With such a large number of invitations to send out, it is possible some committee members have been missed," Mr. Thomas said, "however I want all members to know that they are invited and we want them to come, whether or not they have received an invitation."

"The presence of every member of the committee is essential," the county chairman added. "This drive will be the Invasion Drive, in which we will back up the 3,000 counties in the armed forces and our nation's armies as they prepare for what is expected to be the most costly engagement of the war—the invasion of the European continent against the German armies."

The Invasion War Bond Drive will begin June 12 and extend to July 8, with the sale of Series E, F, and G bonds from June 1 to July 31 to be counted in the quota.

Important Business

Mr. Wolfe is a past president of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association and a vice president of the Philadelphia National bank at present on leave to serve his country in the War Finance division. In addition to his talk he also plans to show motion pictures of the War Bond campaign.

He expects to leave Boston, Massachusetts, where his daughter is graduating from college on Sunday night in order to arrive here for the dinner Monday evening.

Mr. Thomas will preside at the dinner session which will be followed by a meeting at which "business of extreme importance to the success of the Fifth War Loan Drive will be discussed," it has been announced.

Sub Commander On Air Tonight; Fears Allayed

Lieut. Commander Richard O. Kane, in command of a submarine in the Pacific, will be interviewed on the radio tonight at 10:30 o'clock, over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Commander Kane is in command of a sub on which Lt. Commander Murray B. Frazee, husband of the former Miss Betty Swope, is the Executive Officer.

Some apprehension had been felt by Mrs. Frazee because she had not heard from her husband for some time, an unusual occurrence. However, Mrs. Kane telegraphed Mrs. Frazee this morning that her husband would be interviewed on the radio tonight, thus setting aside any fears that something may have happened to the submarine on which they were officers.

All Europe Under Tension As Invasion News Buzzes

London, May 17 (AP)—European radios rumbled steadily today with talk of mighty United Nations' offensives in the offing from the west and east while Berlin announced Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had completed what may be his final checkup of the German Atlantic wall.

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, Nazi radio commentator, acknowledged that Hitler's legions might be thrown back on both sides.

"We know only too well the elements of uncertainty that are factors of war," he said. "There is no such thing as complete preparedness."

A dispatch from Stockholm said it was reported there that the German preparations included the designation of Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt as supreme commander of the anti-invasion defenses, with Rommel and Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz heading Army groups. Rommel previously had been reported in supreme command.

Although Dittmar said that "the question of when and where the blows will fall both east and west still is evading" as far as the Germans are concerned, other broadcasters expressed the view the

Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 17 (AP)—British units drove northward into the Liri valley toward Highway No. 6 behind Cassino today and the fall of that stronghold at last appeared imminent.

Front line dispatches said crack German parachute troops which long had defended that bloody bastion appeared in danger of winding up their careers in the forsaken town.

Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 17 (AP)—The Germans have been thrown from most of their positions across the mouth of the gun-studded Liri valley in great tank battles and the entire Gustav line south of that corridor to Rome has been overrun, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Fifth and Eighth Armies are plunging on close to the Adolf Hitler line, the main defense barring the way to the Anzio beachhead below the Italian capital and Allied commanders appeared to have won the chance at which they aimed—the destruction of the German forces in Italy.

Evict Enemy From Valley

The Liri valley floor spread out west and south of Cassino reaches northwestward for 20 miles before it is traced through a bottleneck in the mountains at Ceperano, 55 miles from Rome. It represents the right Allied flank of a 25-mile front stretching inland from the Gulf of Gaeta.

"In the Liri valley the enemy has now been evicted from most of his original positions by British and Indian troops," said the Allied communique.

"The enemy is resisting our advance from further prepared positions in the rear. South of the Liri river all positions in the Gustav line have been overrun," it added.

Smashing Flank Attack

British forces took Pignataro, important strong point four miles southwest of Cassino, in a smashing flank attack.

The American warriors fought their way into Castellonoro, heavily fortified town less than four miles from Formia, finding ruined pillboxes and the streets littered with enemy dead. They also occupied the village of Scauri, on the Gulf of Gaeta coastal road four and a half miles from Formia, after a light fight.

Nearly all of the original German positions in the Liri valley now are in Allied hands, an Allied communique announced today, adding, "the battle continues without pause."

Fearing the complete out-flanking of Cassino, to which they have clung for so long, the Germans threw tanks and what reinforcements they could scrape together into an effort to save the town, now menaced by the capture of Pignataro.

French Advance

The communique reported the Americans and French were charging forward to "gain contact with the Adolf Hitler line," now roughly four and a half miles ahead of the French who are wiping out the remaining enemy south of the Liri river.

American forces now hold high ground in a triangle formed by Castellonoro, Spigno and Monte San Angelo, another one of numerous mountains in the battle zone bearing the same name.

The French continued their spectacular advance, driving two and a half miles southwest from San Giorgio in the southern part of the Liri valley against determined resistance.

Other French forces moving westward from Ausonia seized elevations two and a half miles south of Esperia and prepared an assault on that apparently doomed town.

Nazi Effort Fails

Pignataro was taken by British and Indians who thrust westward from their enlarged bridgehead across the Rapido river and encircled this key position in the Gustav line in the center of the Liri valley protecting Cassino's flank. Official reports disclosed belatedly that Pignataro fell Monday night.

Nazi reaction to this direct threat to Highway Six—the famed Via Cassiana—the only route of supply or retreat for the Cassino garrison, was quick and violent.

The enemy massed tanks and all the units which could be scratched together and began a hurried series of counter-attacks. Deadly 88-mm. guns helped them carve a path through British and Indian lines.

But the effort failed and the British drove ahead.

Their heavy losses compelled the Germans to rush forward even troops which had been in rear training centers and throw them in alongside beleaguered units of the First Parachute Division between Cassino and Pignataro.

Take Crack Troops

The 90th Panzer Grenadier Division—one of the most famous of Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps, which was reformed after the bulk of its veterans were lost in Africa—also was thrown into the fight ahead of the Hitler line and lost many prisoners.

The enemy has been cleared from the area south of Pignataro and the bridgehead over the Rapido now is 5,000 yards deep.

Although heavy bombers were grounded by the weather yesterday for the second successive day, the Mediterranean Air Force managed to fly 1,800 sorties in support of ground operations.

The enemy's heavy shelling of the Rapido bridges decreased after a concerted blasting of his artillery positions by Allied guns and warplanes.

BRAVERY AND COURAGE DUE CHINA'S ARMY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

You don't have to wait for D-day, if you're looking for martial romance and brave adventure, for you'll find them both in the latest effort of the Chinese to pull themselves out of the Japanese toils by the straps of their battle-worn boots.

That's the Salween river offensive in southwest China—one of the world's wild, primordial areas. The purpose of the drive is to restore China's land lifeline to India—the famous Burma road which, on its Chinese end, was hewed out through the mountain fastnesses largely with primitive tools in the hands of a host of men, women and children after the enemy had occupied their country's ports.

This column previously has cited the grave danger to China created by the powerful Nipponese offensive along the Yellow river in the heart of the nation. This threatens Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's remaining slender resources.

Serious Problem

China's problem is how to stand off this menace pending arrival of all-out Allied help. In order to hang on she must have supplies. Her only feasible communication with the outside world is by air to India. Aerial transport is moving much materiel, but she's in dire need of heavy equipment, like artillery, and that calls for ground transport, which means a highway to India.

So the Celestials are seeking to solve their problem by an offensive with upwards of 20,000 men across the great Salween river, near where it crosses into Japanese held northern Burma. The objective is to drive the invaders out of that zone, in cooperation with other Allied troops operating from bases in northeast India. That will permit a joining up of the severed end of the old Burma road in China with the new Ledo road which American engineers built up through India and then extended a considerable distance into the northern tip of Burma.

Race Against Time

This Allied offensive, of which the Salween drive has become a part, is racing against time to complete the operation before the arrival of the monsoon deluge which is due shortly and will flood the country until autumn. If the Allies can evict the enemy quickly they may be able to effect a junction of the two roads before the monsoon gets too bad.

It's a vital effort for the cause of the United Nations. When we talk of restoring China's "life-line" we don't use the phrase lightly. The Burma road—inadequate as it was to meet demands—was the isolated country's main artery. The Allies can't get along without China in the war against Japan.

The Chinese offensive across the Salween is a bold undertaking. This river is one of the longest in that part of the world. It rises in Tibet and winds on through China and into Burma for over 1,500 miles. For much of the way it flows through gorges thousands of feet deep, and it was by bridge across one of these terrifying canyons that the Burma road used to pass.

Dangerous Feat

The Chinese crossed the river at one of the open stretches, using small boats of all sorts. It was a dangerous feat, for the Japanese were holding the western bank. However, the Chinese battled their way ashore on a wide front and heavy fighting has been proceeding. They must drive perhaps 75 miles through wild mountain country to reach the Burmese border. Then they presumably will aim at the neighboring base of Myittha (pronounced mich-in-auer for unknown reasons) towards which our General Joseph Stilwell—the of the square jaw—is driving from the northwest with his American and Chinese troops. Several British contingents also are converging on this base, which is the railroad for the Mandalay railroad and is the main source of supplies for the Japanese.

Capture of this base would force withdrawal of the enemy from the northern up of Burma.

TESTIFIES FCC "SUPPRESSED" DIGEST ARTICLE

Washington, May 17 (AP)—A writer for Reader's Digest, told a congressional committee today a proposed article critical of the federal communications commission was "suggested" by Wendell Willkie, but that it never was published after FCC Chairman James L. Fly protested it as libelous.

The testimony was given by Greta Palmer, of New York, a writer for the magazine, to the special house committee investigating FCC.

She was asked by Rep. Miller (R-Mo) to appear and bring a letter Fly wrote the magazine in which the chairman said he heard the article was to be written and warned that it had a "fallacious legal" standing.

Charge Suppression

Miller charged that Fly "suppressed" the article and questioned whether this involved any tinkering with "freedom of the press."

Miss Palmer told the committee "the article was first suggested to me by Wendell Willkie who sent me to see Bill Paley (president of Columbia broadcasting system)."

She said she also called on Niles Trammell of National Broadcasting company, the editors of Broadcasting Magazine and heads of the Mutual chain. After she had gotten her notes together, she said she came to Washington to give Fly an opportunity to "tell his side."

"Ears Would Be Red"

"That was a very peculiar conversation," she said of her talk with Fly. She quoted him as saying he was preparing an article himself and "why should I help another writer?"

"He told me my ears would be very red if I went ahead and wrote it," she added.

Miss Palmer said she also dined with Morris Ernst—"a White House friend of Fly"—in an effort to obtain more information from the commission's viewpoint, spoke with other officials of the FCC and "made every appeal short of cheesecake without success."

Her Questions

"I've done all I can to give him a fair break," she asserted.

The matters she wanted to go into, she testified, were:

1. "If the immense licensing power (for broadcasting stations) is being abused by Fly, the public ought to know."
2. "The great unsolved puzzle is how can he win arguments on military questions with Knox and Stimson (late Secretary of the Navy, Knox and Secretary of War Stimson)?"
3. "Is he really the Frank Sinatra of the inner circle of the New Deal?"

The 79th Ordnance Company, Indiantown Gap, commanded since its activation by Captain Wayne F. Wentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wentz, East High street, was commended recently for having had no AWOL members since its inception.

The commendation, presented by Maj. Gen. Harry L. Twaddle, commandant of the Indiantown Gap read: "Headquarters, 95th Infantry Division, 795 Ordnance (L&M) Co. is commended for having no enlisted men absent without official leave for a period of one year. This outstanding record indicates a high degree of morale and devotion to duty that should be viewed with pride by each member of the organization."

The 95th Infantry Journal in recent issue points out that the company should soon receive another commendation for its record, which has been kept intact since its activation October 18, 1942. The first commendation was based on the record for the first year. The entire roster of the Ordnance company "have been either present or accounted for over a period reaching 18 months, providing perfection is maintained through next Tuesday, April 18," the paper says.

"New men are quickly made aware of the company's prideful perfection," said the Infantry Journal. "Needing no strong inducement to keep up the good work."

Yank To Be Home For Dad's 100th Birthday

At a United States Medium Bomber Base in Italy, May 17 (AP)—Because his mother dropped a line to President Roosevelt, Tech. Sgt. Arthur R. Hasler, 37-year-old air crew chief, is going home for the celebration of his father's 100th birthday.

He won't be able to make it for the anniversary proper, because it comes tomorrow, but the party will be held up until Hasler's arrival.

Mrs. Hasler, who lives at Genesee, N. Y., wrote to the President: "Please, can my boy come home? He is the youngest of 13 children. They are all married but him. I am having a little party because it's father's 100th birthday."

The elder Hasler is a retired gardener. The son, whose original ship was just withdrawn from combat after completing 100 missions, came overseas in 1943.

Substitute Hubbies Mark Anniversaries

Chicago, May 17 (AP) — Two Marines, acting "under orders," landed at the Drake hotel last night and kept a blind date with the wives of two of their buddies in the South Pacific—unable to be with their mates on their wedding anniversaries.

The double date climaxed the celebration of wedding anniversaries of Mrs. Jean Mickelson of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Mrs. Elizabeth Park of Detroit. Their husbands, Capt. Marion G. Mickelson and Capt. Paul R. Park of Detroit, had arranged, through the Marine Central Procurement Division, for a series of events to celebrate their wedding anniversary.

And the wives agreed, after a night of entertainment—including a dinner, theater party and a visit to an exclusive night club—that "everything was grand"—and the only thing missing to make the celebration a complete success was their husbands.

Capt. Russell Good of San Antonio, Tex., and Reginald Hurvieux of Springfield, Mass., were the Marines assigned to escort the young wives on their round of entertainment last night.

Reports For Duty With His Baby Son

Chicago, May 17 (AP) — Albert Caponetto was to return to Fort Sheridan today, 24 hours after his induction into the Army, but he'll not take his baby son with him as he did yesterday when he reported for service.

"I'm in the Army now," Caponetto said last night after he returned from the army post with his 11 months old son. "I have to do what they tell me."

And what "they"—Army officials—told Caponetto when he reported for induction carrying young Albert Victor was that some arrangements must be made to care for the baby.

Caponetto, 29-year-old mechanic, had told Army officials he had to bring his son to Fort Sheridan because he had no one with whom to leave the child. He explained his wife is unable to take care of the baby because of a spinal injury.

Mrs. Caponetto, said her husband "always took care of the baby."

BRAVERY AND COURAGE DUE CHINA'S ARMY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

You don't have to wait for D-day, if you're looking for martial romance and brave adventure, for you'll find them both in the latest effort of the Chinese to pull themselves out of the Japanese toils by the straps of their battle-worn boots.

That's the Salween river offensive in southwest China—one of the world's wild, primordial areas. The purpose of the drive is to restore China's land lifeline to India—the famous Burma road which, on its Chinese end, was hewed out through the mountain fastnesses largely with primitive tools in the hands of a host of men, women and children after the enemy had occupied their country's ports.

This column previously has cited the grave danger to China created by the powerful Nipponese offensive along the Yellow river in the heart of the nation. This threatens Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's remaining slender resources.

Serious Problem

China's problem is how to stand off this menace pending arrival of all-out Allied help. In order to hang on she must have supplies. Her only feasible communication with the outside world is by air to India. Aerial transport is moving much material, but she's in dire need of heavy equipment, like artillery, and that calls for ground transport, which means a highway to India.

So the Celestials are seeking to solve their problem by an offensive with upwards of 20,000 men across the great Salween river, near where it crosses into Japanese held northern Burma. The objective is to drive the invaders out of that zone, in cooperation with other Allied troops operating from bases in northeast India. That will permit a joining up of the severed end of the old Burma road in China with the new Leda road which American engineers built up through India and then extended a considerable distance into the northern tip of Burma.

Race Against Time

This Allied offensive, of which the Salween drive has become a part, is racing against time to complete the operation before the arrival of the monsoon deluge which is due shortly and will flood the country until autumn. If the Allies can evict the enemy quickly they may be able to effect a junction of the two roads before the monsoon gets too bad.

It's a vital effort for the cause of the United Nations. When we talk of restoring China's "life-line" we don't use the phrase lightly. The Burma road—inadequate as it was to meet demands—was the isolated country's main artery. The Allies can't get along without China in the war against Japan.

The Chinese offensive across the Salween is a bold undertaking. This river is one of the longest in that part of the world. It rises in Tibet and winds on through China and into Burma for over 1,500 miles. For much of the way it flows through gorges thousands of feet deep, and it was by bridge across one of these terrifying canyons that the Burma road used to pass.

Dangerous Feat

The Chinese crossed the river at one of the open stretches, using small boats of all sorts. It was a dangerous feat, for the Japanese were holding the western bank. However, the Chinese battled their way ashore on a wide front and heavy fighting has been proceeding.

They must drive perhaps 75 miles through wild mountain country to reach the Burmese border. Then they presumably will attack at the neighboring base of Myitkyna (pronounced mich-in-auer for unknown reasons) towards which our General Joseph Stilwell—he of the square jaw—is driving from the northwest with his American and Chinese troops. Several British contingents also are converging on this base, which is the railroad for the Mandalay railroad and is the main source of supplies for the Japanese.

Capture of this base would force withdrawal of the enemy from the northern tip of Burma.

TESTIFIES FCC "SUPPRESSED" DIGEST ARTICLE

Washington, May 17 (AP)—A writer for Reader's Digest told a congressional committee today a proposed article critical of the federal communications commission was "suggested" by Wendell Willkie, but that it never was published after FCC Chairman James L. Fly protested it as libelous.

The testimony was given by Greta Palmer, of New York, a writer for the magazine, to the special house committee investigating FCC.

She was asked by Rep. Miller (R-Mo) to appear and bring a letter Fly wrote the magazine in which the chairman said he heard the article was to be written and warned that it had a "fallacious legal" standing.

Charge Suppression

Miller charged that Fly "suppressed" the article and questioned whether this involved any tinkering with "freedom of the press."

Miss Palmer told the committee "the article was first suggested to me by Wendell Willkie (president of Columbia broadcasting system)."

She said she also called on Niles Trammell of National broadcasting company, the editors of Broadcast Magazine and heads of the Mutual chain. After she had gotten her notes together, she said she came to Washington to give Fly an opportunity to "tell his side."

"Ears Would Be Red"

"That was a very peculiar conversation," she said of her talk with Fly. She quoted him as saying he was preparing an article himself and "why should I help another writer?"

"He told me my ears would be very red if I went ahead and wrote it," she added.

Miss Palmer said she also dined with Morris Ernst—"a White House friend of Fly"—in an effort to obtain more information from the commission's viewpoint, spoke with other officials of the FCC and "made every appeal short of cheesecake" without success.

Her Questions

"I've done all I can to give him a fair break," she asserted.

The matters she wanted to go into, she testified, were:

1. "If the immense licensing power (for broadcasting stations) is being abused by Fly, the public ought to know."
2. "The great unsolved puzzle is how can he win arguments on military questions with Knox and Stimson (late Secretary of the Navy Knox and Secretary of War Stimson)."
3. "Is he really the Frank Sinatra of the inner circle of the New Deal?"

The 79th Ordnance Company, Indianapolis Gap, commanded since its activation by Captain Wayne F. Wentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wentz, East High street, was commended recently for having had no AWOL members since its inception.

"New men are quickly made aware of the company's prideful perfection," said the Infantry Journal. "Needling no strong inducement to keep up the good work."

MAROONS FACE 2 TRACK MEETS IN THREE DAYS

Gettysburg high school's track team will wind up its schedule this week by engaging in two meets Thursday and Saturday afternoons. On Thursday the Maroons will conclude their home season by meeting Harrisburg Catholic high here and on Saturday will clash with the Mercersburg academy jayvees at Mercersburg.

The meet with Harrisburg Catholic will get underway at 3:15 o'clock.

Coach Mel Dry's outfit has given an excellent account of itself in four previous meets. The Maroons won dual affairs with Waynesboro and Carlisle and then capped the championship of the Southern Pennsylvania conference. Last week Hanover gained a 61-55 verdict to halt the locals' winning streak.

Several members of the Maroon squad who turned up with minor injuries last week are now recovered and the Dry-men should be at almost full strength this week.

IKE WILLIAMS BEATS WHITE IN 10 HEATS

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP)—Ike Williams blazed away tirelessly last night to win by unanimous decision every round of a ten round bout with Baltimorean Luther (Sluggo) White—thereby earning a crack at former champ Sammy Angott.

The Trenton lightweight, who weighed in at 135½, came out of the first round period with a bloody left brow, but was little handicapped by the wound.

It was no cinch, however, the "Sluggo" used a clutch-and-claw argument and his continuous holding kept Williams from putting on the sensational show thousands of fans expected. Plunging constantly to close quarters, White seldom gave Williams, a dangerous hitter, time to get set for a damaging shot.

To Meet Angott

But even on the inside, the "Sluggo" several inches shorter than his opponent but weighing 136½, couldn't outfight Williams.

White came out of a rousing sixth with a damaged right brow and he was cut under the left eye in the ninth but it was in the tenth round that the 20-year-old Trenton boy really got the range.

It looked for a while as if the "Sluggo" might land in an accident ward, what with the rights and lefts Williams was belting him on the chin. Both boys flew through the ropes.

As the winner of tonight's ten-rounder, Williams will box Sammy Angott at Philadelphia's Shibe park June 6 or 12. Promoter Herman Taylor announced.

A crowd of 9,200, 8,710 of whom paid $24,645.91, witnessed the all-negro contest in which Referee Irving Kutcher and Judges Eddie Loughran and Leo Costella credited every round to the intrepid Ike.

STRIKES MAKE 50,000 IDLE IN WAR WORK

Washington, May 17 (AP)—

The leadership of the Foreman's Association of America called off a strike today at 13 Detroit war plants, which General H. H. Arnold had termed "one of the most serious setbacks the Air Force has had since its inception" and, if continued, might enable the German Air Force to "recover just when it is reeling under our blows."

The exact total on strike because of the foremen's dispute, could not be determined since the Hudson Motor Car Co. announced only that it was shutting down "some of its assembly lines" today and did not make known the number of employees affected.

Their action followed by only a few hours the closing of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. Mack avenue plant, which management attributed to the refusal of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics to accept any more of its output. Nearly 10,000 Briggs employees were involved.

President Robert H. Keys and the foreman executive board of the ten-men's union were summoned by the WLB to Washington to "show cause why the board should not immediately take all steps necessary to invoke the sanctions and penalties provided by the war labor disputes act and the executive orders of the President."

As long as the 13 struck plants remain in private hands only civil action could be taken in the form of suits for damages, but if the government seizes them any person encouraging a strike could be tried on criminal charges.

The WLB, which previously had called on the foremen to end their strike with the assurance that the board was assuming jurisdiction, issued the summons to the union heads after Undersecretary of War Patterson termed the strike potentially the most serious of the war in its effect on combat aircraft production.

MACKMEN WIN AGAIN; CUBS BEAT DODGERS

By JACK HANDB

Associated Press Sports Writer

The National league needed two sets of books to keep its records straight today with the first unfinished game of the 1944 season leaving Max Lanier's five-game win streak hanging on the hook until sometime in the week of June 28.

Although Lanier was belted from the hill in the fourth and the Phils led 6-4 when hostilities ceased at the end of the seventh by agreement to let Freddy Fitzsimmons' crew catch a train for Cincinnati, the game was not entered into the books. It will be completed when the Phils again visit St. Louis in June. Until then, Lanier's streak has not been snapped and the Red Birds still have a chance to come up with three runs.

Sox Beat Yanks

Rip Sewell's 11-game streak was interrupted under similar circumstances last season, when the blooper ball expert won seven in a row, took part in an incomplete game and then won four more. When the unfinished game was played two months later, Pittsburgh lost and Sewell was charged with a defeat. It's still a mystery whether Sewell won 11 straight. If Lanier continues to win the same situation can arise.

There was no question about Hank Borowy's holdover 11-game string. Chicago ruined that beyond repair with a 10-4 touncing of the Yankees as Thurman Tucker boosted his leading average to .403 with four hits.

Philadelphia's Athletics continued to blaze with eight wins in their last nine. Jojo White's single in the last of the tenth did the trick for a 4-3 decision over Detroit. The A's won their last six and "Jittery Joe" Berry has won four games although he pitched but 12 innings.

Washington got after Allie Reynolds early, flattened him for three runs in the first and coasted through to a 3-2 edge over Cleveland last night. Mickey Haefner shackled the Tribe with six singles. Lefty Vic Johnson fell apart in the 12th as St. Louis scored four times to wallop Boston, 7-3.

Although the emphasis was on hitting instead of pitching yesterday, Cincinnati and Boston concluded an all-shutout series at two wins apiece. Boston took the finale, 1-0, with Nate Andrews whitewashing the Reds but needing help from Al Javery in the ninth.

Bill Nicholson's double scoring Ival Goodman in the last of the ninth ruined Brooklyn's bright hopes of victory. The Dodgers routed Chicago Rookie Dale Alderson in the first and led at one stage 5-1 but Curt Davis couldn't stop the Cubs' closing spurt for a 7-6 nod.

See Post-War Boom In Skeet Shooting

New York, May 17 (AP)—The noise of exploding shotgun shells will not be the only boom in skeet and trap shooting after the war, heads of the organizations sponsoring those sports indicated today.

Henry E. Ahlin of Boston, president of the National Skeet Shooting Association, Inc., and Ray E. Loring of Vandalla, Ohio, manager of the amateur trapshooting association, predicted that wartime training would bring many converts to the clay target competitions.

Because of ammunition shortages for scatterguns, the National Skeet tournament has been abandoned for the duration, but the Grand American handicap, trapshooting's No. 1 fixture, is being continued on an abbreviated and "bring your own shells" basis. This year's roaring grand is scheduled August 23, 24 and 25 at the association's permanent home at Vandalla.

In the past the big trapshoot has run up to eight days.

Simonds Wins Fourth Game

(By The Associated Press)

Right-hander Dwight Simonds is the fair-haired boy of the Scranton Red Sox pitching staff—and little wonder.

Of four wins chalked up by the 1943 eastern league champions in 14 starts Simonds, who spent 15 months in the Army before joining Scranton, accounted for all four.

The former three-eye leaguer pitched his fourth straight triumph last night as the Red Sox turned back the Utica Braves, 8-6, to end a three-game losing streak.

The Red Sox hadn't won since Simonds took the nightcap of a doubleheader last Friday to end a string of losses at four.

Simonds allowed nine hits last night, but wasn't in serious trouble until the ninth when the Utes suddenly rallied. The attack opened with a pair of triples and a single which were good for two runs. Simonds tightened up, however, and two force-outs at second and a roller to the box eliminated the threat.

Henie Manush, Scranton manager, reported that Joe Kolowski, Red Sox shortstop who suffered a fractured jaw and a sprained arm in Monday night's game, probably would be out of the lineup for at least six weeks.

Other games scheduled last night were postponed because of rain.

Tonight's schedule: Wilkes-Barre at Utica; Scranton at Binghamton; Albany at Williamsport; Hartford at Elmira.

STRIKES MAKE 50,000 IDLE IN WAR WORK

Washington, May 17 (AP)—

The leadership of the Foreman's

Association of America called off a strike today at 13 Detroit war plants, which General H. H. Arnold had termed "one of the most serious setbacks the Air Force has had since its inception" and, if continued, might enable the German Air Force to "recover just when it is reeling under our blows."

Detroit, May 17 (AP)—The outcome of a long struggle by the Foreman's Association of America to gain recognition as a bargaining agent for supervisory plant employees lay at stake today as top officials of the union engaged in a showdown battle with the War Labor Board over a series of strikes responsible for the idleness of nearly 50,000

war workers in the Detroit area.

The exact total on strike because of the foremen's dispute could not be determined since the Hudson

Motor Car Co. announced only that it was shutting down "some of its assembly lines" today and did not make known the number of employ-

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Sergeant Smiley Is Again Chief:
After serving nineteen months in France with Field Bakery Number 16, Horace E. Smiley will on Monday resume his position as Chief of Police of Gettysburg, replacing Andrew Welkert, who will go on the night force and work in conjunction with C. A. Fox.
Immediately after war was declared against Germany Chief Smiley handed in his resignation as chief of police which was not accepted by town council and instead he was given indefinite leave of absence and his position held open for him the entire time he was in France.

Cook-Geiselman: Charles Cook and Maude Geiselman, both of Gettysburg, were granted a marriage license in Hagerstown on Wednesday. They were married in Hagerstown.

Shearer-Myers: John Calvin Shearer and Miss Bertha Myers, of Gettysburg, were married in York at six o'clock on Wednesday evening at the parsonage of Trinity First Reformed church by Rev. Samuel Henry Stein.

John C. Shearer, present owner of a billiard room on Chambersburg street, was formerly Chief of Police in Gettysburg. Following his resignation from the force here he joined the State Constabulary. He is now connected with the Garlich undertaking establishment.

Earl Smith Lands: Earl J. Smith of Railroad street, landed at Philadelphia Sunday. He was sent to Camp Dix where he will be discharged. Smith was captured by the Germans and spent several months in a prison camp.

Property Sold: The Warner property opposite the court house, the big three-story building housing the Photoplay theater, law office and several residential flats, has been sold by John Warner to Harry Troxell, proprietor of the theater.

Locates at Walkersville: Dr. Donald Coover, who served in the medical corps for a number of months, has decided to locate in Walkersville, Maryland.

McConnell-Eckenrode: Charles McConnell of Birmingham, Alabama and Miss Margaret A. Eckenrode, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eckenrode, of South Washington street, were married at seven o'clock Saturday evening in the Catholic rectory, by the Rev. W. F. Boyle.

The attendants were Miss Katherine Eckenrode and James Moore. Mr. and Mrs. McConnell left Sunday afternoon for their home in Bessemer, Alabama, where Mr. McConnell is proprietor of the Le-Grand theater.

Last Victory Sing Meeting: Community Sings, one of the most popular institutions ever started in Gettysburg, were brought to an end for the season on Sunday evening in the St. James Lutheran church. Large crowds, which characterized the meetings during the past nine months gathered for the final service sing.

Bream-Kready: C. Arthur Bream, of Gettysburg, and Miss May Kready of Orrtanna, left Gettysburg on Friday afternoon for Trenton, New Jersey, where they will be married today.

After spending six months in the Army, Mr. Bream accepted a position as traveling representative of the John C. Lower company. A short time ago he purchased the Harry Wentz store on North Washington street, which is conducted by his mother. They will live at 159 North Washington street.

Bream-Minter: Miss Zella C. Minter and John W. Bream, both of Cashtown, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Minter, on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, by their pastor, Rev. D. T. Koser, of Arendtsville.

The bridegroom recently returned from Camp Meade, where he had spent fourteen months.

Myers-Driscoll: Wilbur J. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gervus Myers of North Stratton street, and Miss Margaret Driscoll, of New York, were married in New York on Friday.

Property Sold: Mrs. Murray Long has sold her property on Baltimore street to Joseph J. Redding, of Cumberland township. Possession will be given June 1st.

Personal: The Eighth Grade pupils of Meade school presented their former teacher, Mrs. H. A. Bucher, with a silver bread tray and a silver gravy ladle as a token of esteem.

Otto Oriswell, of the Quartermaster corps stationed at Camp Dix, received his honorable discharge from the Army on Wednesday and has returned to his home on South Washington street.

C. C. Hanes, Dean Of County Blacksmiths, Sees Future In Trade

C. C. Hanes, midway between Biglerville and Arendtsville, has traded the "spreading chestnut tree" for the spreading pines, but the dean of Adams county blacksmiths continues to carry on his work from day to day with the same sure skill that marked the county's army of blacksmiths of three or more decades ago.

Now rapidly approaching 72, Mr. Hanes finds it almost impossible to do all the shoeing he has been asked to do of late, and tries to keep horseshoeing down to a minimum. But the husky septuagenarian who once shod 29 horses in one day—"in less than ten hours" asks "what can you do about it? You hate to turn away men who have been your customers for years when they bring their horses in for shoeing."

One of the half dozen blacksmiths still plying the trade in the county, Mr. Hanes remembers back 49 years ago, when he became an apprentice to S. N. Bowers in Biglerville. He remembers when each community in the county had at least one blacksmith and the larger boroughs had several.

Goes To Customers Now
Only one man in the county has started in the business in recent years, Mr. Hanes says. He is Russell Osburn 28, at Five Points.

Despite modernization of farm machinery and the onslaught of the tractor there is yet a bright future for the blacksmith in the county, Mr. Hanes insists. Things have changed somewhat from the days when the blacksmith put up his shop where he pleased and the farmers from the section and the people of the town drove their horses to the shop to be shod. Now the blacksmith must pack his equipment on a truck and visit the farms, for the horses are unable to make long trips on the hard surfaced roads.

But the tractor has not as yet replaced the horse and, according to Mr. Hanes probably never will, for horses can be used where tractors cannot on some farms in the county.

Few Can Shoe Horses
Osburn, the newest blacksmith in the county learned part of his trade from Mr. Hanes, serving four months under his tutelage recently. Most of the blacksmiths in the county now are machinists rather than horse shoers and many who know the machinists' part of the blacksmithing trade do not know how to shoe horses, the dean of blacksmiths points out.

The few who still can shoe horses and still work in the trade include

William Funt at Table Rock, Ross Knipple at Mummaburg, John Ep-pley, at Round Top, who has specialized in shoeing trotters, and Osburn.

Bigger Horses Now

The coming of the automobile and the tractor has worked other changes in the blacksmithing trade. "For years it was seldom that we got a horse that weighed more than 1,500 pounds, now the 1,500-pound horses are considered light. Shoe sizes one to five were the stock in trade, with the fives very seldom used. Now the sizes range from five to eight, with farmers using bigger horses, some of which weigh over 2,000 pounds," Mr. Hanes points out.

"It takes a bit of doing to shoe a 2,000-pound horse," he adds.

Learning to shoe a horse properly takes a long time, he asserts, "in the cities a man was not thought completely instructed in shoeing horses until he had spent four years at the trade."

"Still Learning"
"You know, when I had had six months' instruction I thought I knew everything about shoeing horses. Now after 49 years as a blacksmith I'm still learning."

"You know how you feel if you have on a shoe that does not fit—well a horse feels the same way, so you have to know a lot about horses before you can properly shoe them. For a 'knee-knocker' you have to put one kind of a shoe on, for another horse something entirely different will be needed, or the shoe will have to be fit in a different way. "I shod polo ponies at Philadelphia and they took a light shoe without any projections so that they could turn quickly. Another horse will need an entirely different shoe because it is being used for a different purpose."

Different Metals and Prices

"There is no other change in the blacksmithing business. Years ago most of the work was done by the eye. Now it's done by touch. That sounds strange but the difference is brought about by the increased use of alloys. In early days iron was iron and you could tell by looking at it that it was iron. Now a metal may look like iron to the eye but you don't know what you have until you put a hot poker to it. Then the feel of the poker against the metal will tell you what it is," says Mr. Hanes.

In the old days he used a ton and a half of shoes a year to keep shod the horses of his customers. Now the number is small—but he has to turn away a lot of business in horseshoeing, "because the work is getting to be just too heavy for me to do." When he began work nearly a half century ago horse shoes were sold for $1 a set. Now the price ranges from $2.50 to $3.50, "but we made more profit from the $1 price than we do at today's price."

As for the comparative trouble in shoeing horses and ponies, Mr. Hanes will take the horse any day. For the pony a man has to get down on his knees, he says, and the position makes it difficult to shoe.

Mr. Hanes started business as apprentice to S. N. Bowers where the O. C. Rice farm machinery business is now located in Biglerville. Later he went to Arendtsville and worked for Harry and then Bill Warren. Later, he worked at New Oxford for Harry Diehl and then went to Philadelphia where for 15 years he was a blacksmith, for a time working for other men and then in his own shop.

Returned To County

At his own shop in Cheltenham, near Philadelphia he shod mostly carriage horses. Then he moved to Falsboro, New Jersey. "I never was a man to believe in staying at the same place all the time," he adds, "you can learn more by moving around and seeing how other folks do it."

About three decades ago he became tired of being away from his home county, "so I put an ad in the paper to get a job nearer home. I landed in Shippensburg as a result of that ad."

A short time later he returned to Biglerville, to his first boss, S. N. Bowers, where he did all of the horse shoeing while Mr. Bowers handled the rest of the blacksmith trade. When Mr. Bowers retired a few years later Mr. Hanes took over the Bowers establishment. Later he moved to Sillick's blacksmith shop.

About three years ago, "My wife and I were visiting George Slay-baugh and his wife at their summer cottage. Later my wife and I talked it over, when we learned George wanted to sell and we decided to move here. At first I planned to drive back and forth to Biglerville to work, but most of my customers came from up around here and in the Valley, so they told me, 'why don't you move your shop up to your home in the hills—we'll follow you'; and in two weeks I had sold out and moved the equipment up here and here I expect to stay as long as I live."

Besides his blacksmith shop, set in the same pine grove as the house, he has a large pond filled with some 300 goldfish and a few huge Chinese carp. Squirrels and birds abound on the place, with Mr. Hanes not allowing any hunting. Some of the squirrels eat from his hand. When he strikes two bolts together under water the goldfish come to him to be fed. (Please Turn to Page 5)

ROBIN TRAINING
I fancied yesterday I heard The counsel of a mother-bird, A mother-robin on a tree Saying: "Now spread your wings with me!"

Knowing full well her fledglings small Would, with the first brave effort fail.

Three lessons more she bade them take: First, how and where a nest to make; Next, what of berries and of meat Robins, both young and old, could eat, And lastly just what foes to fear And how to sense when they were near.

When she was sure her young could fly She said to them a last goodbye. On equal terms away they went, To live the life their maker meant. She stored no food for them to find, Were they to idleness inclined.

No easier way of life was shown For them, than she herself had known; No nest prepared and furnished free, But useful robins trained to be, And taught the various skills they'd need Were they as robins to succeed.

KNOWING PEOPLE

To know people is an art. But it has to be learned, just like music, painting or writing. Of course there must be the capacity, that something which is inborn, or, in other words, something on which a foundation can be built.

To know some people you have to be willing to step down to their level, and to know others you have to take a walk up to them! But it's all a matter of tact, understanding and genius. And right here I wish to say that knowing people, and gaining them as your friends, is to a very great extent a matter of genius. You can never know people by grading them by what you hear or read about them.

You often hear the expression, "I have known him all my life," or words of similar construction. But it is a fact that we can know of a person for a lifetime and yet not even have known him. We have to take another person quite apart, and piece his parts to us, before we really can boast of our kinship to him.

A friend of mine, who has often opened up his secret self to me, and of whom I know at least much that is important for understanding, related to me recently that he had been married for 30 years to his wife—but that during this time they were almost solitary strangers.

Few were those who ever actually knew Henry D. Thoreau in person. He was a wandering stranger to most of those who even saw him day after day. Rare was the one who would even be a welcomed companion on his tramps. W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, was a greatly beloved human being, yet it was his own brother who told him that of all men he had ever known, he knew him the least.

Knowing people is accepting them as they are, interchanging mutual feelings and ideas, and profiting by the process, but never trying to make them over to our notion. Knowing people is to have won their love and confidence.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Turn the Earth."

Let's Face The Facts Squarely

Most of the cars now on the road were made prior to 1941, and much of the farm machinery in the county is similarly aged as a result of wartime shortages which prevent the replacement of worn machinery and cars with new equipment.

Again, due to the war, this farm machinery and these cars—all of which are becoming increasingly aged—have been asked to assume a burden which they normally would not have under peace-time conditions—the farmers are asked to increase acreage and production, the cars must be used for war-vital transportation.

The services rendered by the garages have been strained to the utmost in order to keep the war necessary cars and vital farm machinery operating.

Now we have an inspection period in progress which will add much to the work of the garages.

So the garages ask your cooperation, Mr. Motorist and Mr. Farmer. We want to do everything possible to keep the machines and cars running and we will do it—provided we are given the cooperation we need. If you make an appointment with a garage—keep it. If you fail the garage will be held up and other vital work will have to be postponed. If your job is not too vital, give us time to finish more necessary work before doing yours, and we will do our utmost to do your work as rapidly as possible.

Do not put the inspection of your car off to the last moment—with cars growing older, more repair work may be needed; with mechanics scarce, it is all they can do to keep up with their regular work.

youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Joseph Eckenrode, of South Washington street, were married at seven o'clock Saturday evening in the Catholic rectory, by the Rev. W. F.
Boyle.

The attendants were Miss Katherine Eckenrode and James Moore.
Mr. and Mrs. McConnell left Sunday afternoon for their home in Bessemer, Alabama, where Mr.
McConnell is proprietor of the Le-Grand theater.

Last Victory Sing Meeting: Community Sings, one of the most popular institutions ever started in Gettysburg, were brought to an end for the season on Sunday evening in the St. James Lutheran church. Large crowds, which characterized the meetings during the past nine months gathered for the final service sing.

Bream-Kready: C. Arthur Bream, of Gettysburg, and Miss May Kready of Orrtanna, left Gettysburg on Friday afternoon for Trenton,
New Jersey, where they will be married today.

After spending six months in the Army, Mr. Bream accepted a position as traveling representative of the John C. Lower company. A short time ago he purchased the Harry Wentz store on North Washington street, which is conducted by his mother. They will live at 159
North Washington street.

Bream-Minter: Miss Zella C. Min-ter and John W. Bream, both of Cashtown, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr.
and Mrs. Jacob Minter, on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, by their pastor, Rev. D. T. Koser, of Arendtsville.

The bridegroom recently returned from Camp Meade, where he had spent fourteen months.

Myers-Driscoll: Wilbur J. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gervus Myers of North Stratton street, and Miss Margaret Driscoll, of New York, were married in New York on Friday.

Property Sold: Mrs. Murray Long has sold her property on Baltimore street to Joseph J. Redding, of Cumberland township. Possession will be given June 1st.

Personal: The Eighth Grade pupils of Meade school presented their former teacher, Mrs. H. A. Bucher, with a silver bread tray and a silver gray ladle as a token of esteem.
Otto Criswell, of the Quartermaster corps stationed at Camp Dix, received his honorable discharge from the Army on Wednesday and has returned to his home on South Washington street.

C. C. Hanes, Dean Of County Blacksmiths, Sees Future In Trade

C. C. Hanes, midway between Biglerville and Arendtsville, has traded the "spreading chestnut tree" for the spreading pines, but the dean of Adams county blacksmiths continues to carry on his work from day to day with the same sure skill that marked the county's army of blacksmiths of three or more decades ago.

Now rapidly approaching 72, Mr.
Hanes finds it almost impossible to do all the shoeing he has been asked to do of late, and tries to keep horseshoeing down to a minimum. But the husky septuagenarian who once shod 29 horses in one day—"in less than ten hours too" asks "what can you do about it? You hate to turn away men who have been your customers for years when they bring their horses in for shoeing."

One of the half dozen blacksmiths still plying the trade in the county, Mr. Hanes remembers back 40 years ago, when he became an apprentice to S. N. Bowers in Biglerville. He remembers when each community in the county had at least one blacksmith and the larger boroughs had several.

Goes To Customers Now
Only one man in the county has started in the business in recent years, Mr. Hanes says. He is Russell Osburn 28, at Five Points.

Despite modernization of farm machinery and the onslaught of the tractor there is yet a bright future for the blacksmith in the county, Mr. Hanes insists. Things have changed somewhat from the days when the blacksmith put up his shop where he pleased and the farmers from the section and the people of the town drove their horses to the shop to be shod. Now the blacksmith must pack his equipment on a truck and visit the farms, for the horses are unable to make long trips on the hard surfaced roads.

But the tractor has not as yet replaced the horse and, according to Mr. Hanes probably never will, for horses can be used where tractors cannot on some farms in the county.

Few Can Shoe Horses
Osburn, the newest blacksmith in the county learned part of his trade from Mr. Hanes, serving four months under his tutelage recently.
Most of the blacksmiths in the county now are machinists rather than horse shoers and many who know the machinists' part of the blacksmithing trade do not know how to shoe horses, the dean of blacksmiths points out.

The few who still can shoe horses and still work in the trade include

William Funt at Table Rock, Ross Knipple at Mummaburg, John Eppley, at Round Top, who has specialized in shoeing trotters, and Osburn.

Bigger Horses Now

The coming of the automobile and the tractor has worked other changes in the blacksmithing trade.
"For years it was seldom that we got a horse that weighed more than 1,500 pounds, now the 1,500-pound horses are considered light. Shoe sizes one to five were the stock in trade, with the fives very seldom used. Now the sizes range from five to eight, with farmers using bigger horses, some of which weigh over 2,000 pounds," Mr. Hanes points out.

"It takes a bit of doing to shoe a 2,000-pound horse," he adds.

Learning to shoe a horse properly takes a long time, he asserts, "in the cities a man was not thought completely instructed in shoeing horses until he had spent four years at the trade.

"Still Learning"
"You know, when I had had six months' instruction I thought I knew everything about shoeing horses. Now after 49 years as a blacksmith I'm still learning."

"You know how you feel if you have on a shoe that does not fit—well a horse feels the same way, so you have to know a lot about horses before you can properly shoe them. For a 'knee-knocker' you have to put one kind of a shoe on, for another horse something entirely different will be needed, or the shoe will have to be fit in a different way.

"I shod polo ponies at Philadelphia and they took a light shoe without any projections so that they could turn quickly. Another horse will need an entirely different shoe because it is being used for a different purpose.

Different Metals and Prices

"There is no other change in the blacksmithing business. Years ago most of the work was done by the eye. Now it's done by touch. That sounds strange but the difference is brought about by the increased use of alloys. In early days iron was iron and you could tell by looking at it that it was iron. Now a metal may look like iron to the eye but you don't know what you have until you put a hot poker to it.
Then the feel of the poker against the metal will tell you what it is,"
says Mr. Hanes.

In the old days he used a ton and a half of shoes a year to keep shod the horses of his customers.
Now the number is small—but he has to turn away a lot of business in horseshoeing, "because the work is getting to be just too heavy for me to do." When he began work nearly a half century ago horse shoes were sold for $1 a set. Now the price ranges from $2.50 to $3.50,
"but we made more profit from the $1 price than we do at today's price."

As for the comparative trouble in shoeing horses and ponies, Mr.
Hanes will take the horse any day.
For the pony a man has to get down on his knees, he says, and the position makes it difficult to shoe.

Mr. Hanes started business as apprentice to S. N. Bowers where the O. C. Rice farm machinery business is now located in Biglerville.

Later he went to Arendtsville and worked for Harry and then Bill Warren. Later he worked at New Oxford for Harry Diehl and then went to Philadelphia where for 15 years he was a blacksmith, for a time working for other men and then in his own shop.

Returned To County

At his own shop in Cheltenham, near Philadelphia he shod mostly carriage horses. Then he moved to Falsboro, New Jersey. "I never was a man to believe in staying at the same place all the time," he adds,
"you can learn more by moving around and seeing how other folks do it."

About three decades ago he became tired of being away from his home county, "so I put an ad in the paper to get a job nearer home.
I landed in Shippensburg as a result of that ad."

A short time later he returned to Biglerville, to his first boss, S.
N. Bowers, where he did all of the horse shoeing while Mr. Bowers handled the rest of the blacksmith trade. When Mr. Bowers retired a few years later Mr. Hanes took over the Bowers establishment.
Later he moved to Sillick's blacksmith shop.

About three years ago, "My wife and I were visiting George Slaybaugh and his wife at their summer cottage. Later my wife and I talked it over, when we learned George wanted to sell and we decided to move here. At first I planned to drive back and forth to Biglerville to work, but most of my customers came from up around here and in the Valley, so they told me, 'why don't you move your shop up to your home in the hills—we'll follow you'; and in two weeks I had sold out and moved the equipment up here and here I expect to stay as long as I live."

Besides his blacksmith shop, set in the same pine grove as the house, he has a large pond filled with some 300 goldfish and a few huge Chinese carp. Squirrels and birds abound on the place, with Mr. Hanes not allowing any hunting. Some of the squirrels eat from his hand. When he strikes two bolts together under water the goldfish come to him to be fed.

Let's Face The Facts Squarely

Most of the cars now on the road were made prior to 1941, and much of the farm machinery in the county is similarly aged as a result of wartime shortages which prevent the replacement of worn machinery and cars with new equipment.

Again, due to the war, this farm machinery and these cars—all of which are becoming increasingly aged—have been asked to assume a burden which they normally would not have under peace-time conditions—the farmers are asked to increase acreage and production, the cars must be used for war-vital transportation.

The services rendered by the garages have been strained to the utmost in order to keep the war necessary cars and vital farm machinery operating.

Now we have an inspection period in progress which will add much to the work of the garages.

So the garages ask your cooperation, Mr. Motorist and Mr. Farmer.
We want to do everything possible to keep the machines and cars running and we will do it—provided we are given the cooperation we need. If you make an appointment with a garage—keep it. If you fail the garage will be held up and other vital work will have to be postponed. If your job is not too vital, give us time to finish more necessary work before doing yours, and we will do our utmost to do your work as rapidly as possible.

Do not put the inspection of your car off to the last moment—with cars growing older, more repair work may be needed; with mechanics scarce, it is all they can do to keep up with their regular work.

Pea Crop In County Is Threatened By Aphids

Adams county's pea crop, covering several thousands of acres, may be wiped out in the next week or two, unless control measures succeed in checking the pea aphids. That statement was made today by M. T. Hartman, county farm agent, and J. O. Pepper, extension entomologist from State College, following a survey of a number of fields throughout the county. Winged aphids were found in nearly every field—the earliest infestation in the pea fields that has ever been noted by Mr. Pepper—and are producing young rapidly. Some fields showed one aphid per plant, which means that millions of the insects will be produced within the next week or ten days. The pea aphid follows an unusual life cycle, it was pointed out, existing in egg form during the winter, hatching into its winged form which reproduces young alive rather than by egg, thus reproducing more rapidly than most insects. "Unless the infestation is reduced by disease, parasite, predators or by control measure, it will practically destroy the county's crop of peas," Mr. Hartman and Mr. Pepper declared.

Dusting Is Most Practical
At the same time they warned that their investigations disclosed no signs of disease among the pests, and that the brood far outnumbered predators and parasites. "We urge pea growers to keep regular watch of their fields for the next week or ten days," Mr. Hartman said today. "If the infestation continues to increase normally, it will be highly advisable to treat the fields for aphid control just before coming starts." Dusting is believed to be the most practical treatment, and the county agricultural authorities announced number of dusts that may be used to combat the insect. Among the materials that have given good

Maintain Weight Of Turkey Tom Breeders

Turkey toms should be maintained at their best weight during the breeding season for best breeding purposes, says P. H. Margolf, of the poultry husbandry staff of the Pennsylvania State college. There is a tendency for toms to lose weight during this season, and when they lose 20 per cent of their weight, their tendency of fertility usually becomes dangerously low. Toms kept away from hens for certain periods during the breeding season eat better and fret less and are likely to maintain better body weight. Alternating them, about a third of the time in breeding pens and two-thirds in the rest of the year has been found beneficial.

Pennsylvania Hens Set New Records

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—April production records have been broken by Pennsylvania hens which laid 12 million eggs or 23 million more than in April 1943.

The state agriculture department said today the April total exceeded that of March by 2 million eggs even though there were 708,000 almost four per cent fewer laying hens and pullets on farms in the state. "Pennsylvania egg production," the report added, "during the first four months of this year was eight per cent greater than for the same period in 1943."

aphid control in the past years are a ¼ rotenone dust, or a combination dust containing one-half rotenone, two per cent nicotine, derived from alkaloid nicotine, and 15 per cent dusting sulphur with the remainder of the dust made up of talc. Or a four per cent nicotine dust may be used.

Materials Available

All of these materials should be applied at the rate of 35 to 40 pounds per acre, Mr. Hartman said, using a 25-foot apron behind the duster to keep the dust on the pea plants.

The dust may be applied at any time during the day or evening, the county agent said, and the aphids should be controlled before the pea pods form on the plant. The aphids should be controlled not only because the aphids will cut down the yield, but because the insects will destroy the quality of the remaining peas, Mr. Hartman asserted.

County Agent Hartman suggested that pea growers contact their canners because the materials for dusting and equipment are on hand at the various canneries.

Corry, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Mrs. Sadie Salmon, 55, died of suffocation shortly after she was carried unconscious from a fire which damaged her home here last night. Mrs. Salmon's brother, William Langham, was severely burned, and is recovering at Corry hospital.

Farmer, Auctioneer Face OPA Charges

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—Paul E. Sanger, Myerstown auctioneer, and L. R. Bucklew, farmer of South Annville township, Lebanon county, were called for trial today in U. S. District court on charges of violating OPA ceiling prices at a farm auction Feb. 10.

Sanger and Bucklew were arrested last February on warrants issued by the U. S. district attorney's office on information from the Harrisburg district OPA office, which accused the pair of auctioning off two farm tractors for prices above OPA ceilings.

Both men have been in liberty on $1,000 bonds.

Recipients included these Pennsylvanians: Arthur H. Berkoben, New Kensington; Sgt. Gordon Shaffer, Route One, Lock Haven; Merle A. McCoy, Route Four, Carlisle.

MILK BATHS

New Britain, Conn. (AP)—Opposing pitchers won't be able to force the Fairfield factory ball club's batters to put one foot in the water bucket this season. The batters who duck away from the high hard ones will back into a milk pail instead. The management announced today that it would substitute milk for the usual bucket of water this season.

Milking Machines Are Time Savers

Now that manufacturers have been authorized to make more milking machines, many farmers are wondering whether it will pay to switch from hand to machine milking, says I. F. Parkin dairy extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

He has found that if the herd contains 10 or more cows to milk the year around, the time saved by a milking machine will pay for the device.

There are a few steps which will provide managed milking, whether by hand or by machine, that produces more milk in less time. Stimulate the cow before milking by wringing a towel in water 130 degrees F., and applying the hot towel to the udder in a massaging motion. Hot towel operations will require about a minute to a minute and a half on most cows to obtain the "letdown" of milk.

Follow hot towel massage by stripping out a few streams of milk from each teat. Next milk the cow. Most cows will milk out in 3 to 3½ minutes after training. The last half-minute the machine remains on the cow should strip her and thus eliminate hand stripping.

Homing pigeons used by the U. S. Army live about eight or nine years.

The summer cottage has been transformed into a year-around house with the building of a cellar electric lights and all conveniences including running water.

"Nice Place to Settle Down" "It's a perfect place to settle down," he says.

Most of his work recently has been making shoes out of spring steel, making chain and similar work. The shoe business is about over, "because I can't get handles," but there is still "all the work I want to do."

His blacksmith shop is an amazing array of tools. Nearly 50 types of hammers are placed on one rack. All of the tools are handmade.

"It's a poor blacksmith that can't make his own tools," says Mr. Hanes. "If a man can't make a tool—he doesn't know anything about blacksmithing anyway."

Gives Advice On Preserving Eggs

With eggs plentiful and available at economical prices, now is the time to preserve ample supplies for use later when quantities of fresh eggs are limited and prices are higher, suggests John Vandervort, in charge of poultry extension for the Pennsylvania State college.

In selecting eggs for preserving, only fresh, clean and infertile eggs, with sound shells, should be used. If eggs are candled immediately before treatment, those with weak shells and other defects affecting their keeping quality can be eliminated. It pays to use only clean eggs which have not been washed, he points out.

ORCHARD GRASS SEED IN DEMAND

With a growing shortage and heavy demand for orchard grass seed, Adams county farmers should now select and prepare fields for harvesting a seed crop this year, Fred V. Grau, extension agronomist of the Pennsylvania State college, said today. In addition to assuring themselves and their neighbors of seed, good stands may return to the grower as much as $100 an acre, with heavy demands for domestic and export use. The second growth may be used for pasture or cut for hay, he added.

Harvesting of the seed is little different from cutting small grain with the binder and no more difficult if a few simple precautions are followed. Steps in preparing a field for maximum seed production and also improving the forage yield are:

Select stands two or more years old since they produce more heavily than first-year stands; select only fields free from quack grass; provide proper fertilizer; remove by digging or cutting all dock before the crop comes to full bloom (early June); pay special attention to stands that are known to be 50 years old, even in small patches, since they have natural adaptation.

Fertilizer depends on the crop. If the stand is nearly pure orchard grass with little or no legume present, fertilize before May 15 with 30 pounds of nitrogen to the acre (200 pounds of nitrate of soda or 300 pounds of 10-6-4, or equivalent). If stand is about half orchard grass

Pea Crop In County Is Threatened By Aphis

Adams county's pea crop, covering several thousands of acres, may be wiped out in the next week or ten days, unless control measures succeed in checking the pea aphis.

That statement was made today by M. T. Hartman, county farm agent, and J. O. Pepper, extension entomologist from State College, following a survey of a number of pea fields throughout the county.

Winged aphis were found in nearly every field—the earliest infestation in the pea fields that has ever been noted by Mr. Pepper—and are reproducing young rapidly. Some fields showed one aphis per plant, which means that millions of the insects will be produced within the next week or ten days.

The pea aphis follows an unusual life cycle. It was pointed out, existing in egg form during the winter, it hatches into its winged form which reproduces young alive rather than by egg, thus reproducing more rapidly than most insects.

"Unless the infestation is reduced by disease, parasite, predators or by control measure, it will practically destroy the county's crop of peas," Mr. Hartman and Mr. Pepper declared.

Dusting Is Most Practical

At the same time they warned that their investigations disclosed no signs of disease among the pests, and that the brood far outnumbered the predators and parasites.

"We urge pea growers to keep careful watch of their fields for the next week or ten days," Mr. Hartman said today. "If the infestation continues to increase normally, it will be highly advisable to treat the fields for control just before blooming starts."

Dusting is believed to be the most practical treatment, and the county agricultural authorities announced a number of dusts that may be used to combat the insect. Among the materials that have given good aphis control in the past years are a 3/4 rotenone dust, or a combination dust containing one-half rotenone, two per cent nicotine, derived from alkaloid nicotine, and 15 per cent dusting sulphur with the remainder of the dust made up of talc. Or a four per cent nicotine dust may be used.

Materials Available

All of these materials should be applied at the rate of 35 to 40 pounds per acre, Mr. Hartman said, using a 25-foot apron behind the duster to keep the dust on the pea plants.

The dust may be applied at any time during the day or evening, the county agent said, and the aphis should be controlled before the pea pods form on the plant. The aphis should be controlled not only because the aphis will cut down the yield, but because the insects will destroy the quality of the remaining peas, Mr. Hartman asserted.

County Agent Hartman suggested that pea growers contact their canners because the materials for dusting and equipment are on hand at the various canneries.

Fire Damages Home; Dies After Rescue

Corry, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Mrs. Sadie Salmon, 55, died of suffocation shortly after she was carried unconscious from a fire which damaged her home here last night.

Mrs. Salmon's brother, William Langham, was severely burned, and is recovering at Corry hospital.

Farmer, Auctioneer Face OPA Charges

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—Paul E. Sanger, Myerstown auctioneer, and L. R. Bucklew, farmer of South Annville township, Lebanon county, were called for trial today in U. S. District court on charges of violating OPA ceiling prices at a farm auction Feb. 10.

Sanger and Bucklew were arrested last February on warrants issued by the U. S. district attorney's office on information from the Harrisburg district OPA office, which accused the pair of auctioning off two farm tractors for prices above OPA ceilings.

Both men have been at liberty on $1,000 bonds.

Veterans In Italy Get 48 Silver Stars

Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 17 (AP)—Major Gen. Fred L. Walker pinned 48 Silver Stars today on officers and men of the 36th "Texas" Division, telling them their drive to bridge the Rapido river earlier this year has never been excelled for "fortitude and bravery."

MILK BATHS

New Britain, Conn. (AP)—Opposing pitchers won't be able to force the Fafnir factory ball club's batters to put one foot in the water bucket this season. The batters who duck away from the high hard ones will back into a milk pail instead. The management announced today that it would substitute milk for the usual bucket of water this season.

Milking Machines Are Time Savers

Now that manufacturers have been authorized to make more milking machines, many farmers are wondering whether it will pay to switch from hand to machine milking, says I. P. Parkin dairy extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

He has found that if the herd contains 10 or more cows to milk the year around, the time saved by a milking machine will pay for the device.

There are a few steps which will provide managed milking, whether by hand or by machine, that produces more milk in less time. Stimulate the cow before milking by wringing a towel in water 130 degrees F., and applying the hot towel to the udder in a massaging motion. Hot towel operations will require about a minute to a minute and a half on most cows to obtain the "letdown" of milk.

Follow hot towel massage by stripping out a few streams of milk from each teat. Next milk the cow. Most cows will milk out in 3 to 3 1/2 minutes after training. The last half-minute the machine remains on the cow should strip her and thus eliminate hand stripping.

The pine grove has been cleared out in park-like fashion and benches provide seats for the septuagenarian and his friends. "On a clear day you can see Gettysburg from here," he says.

The summer cottage has been transformed into a year-around house with the building of a cellar electric lights and all conveniences including running water.

"Nice Place to Settle Down" "It's a perfect place to settle down," he says.

Most of his work recently has been making shoes out of spring steel, making chain and similar work. "The hoe business is about over, 'because I can't get handles,' but there is still 'all the work I want to do.'"

His blacksmith shop is an amazing array of tools. Nearly 50 types of hammers are placed on one rack. All of the tools are handmade.

"It's a poor blacksmith that can't make his own tools," says Mr. Hanes. "If a man can't make a tool—he doesn't know anything about blacksmithing anyway."

Omaha (AP)—An Omaha editor, who wired a country correspondent asking for a story on the death of a prominent man, got the following telegraphed reply: "Details on death in mail. No telegraph service here now."

Gives Advice On Preserving Eggs

With eggs plentiful and available at economical prices, now is the time to preserve ample supplies for use later when quantities of fresh eggs are limited and prices are higher, suggests John Vandervort, in charge of poultry extension for the Pennsylvania State college.

In selecting eggs for preserving, only fresh, clean and infertile eggs, with sound shells, should be used. If eggs are candled immediately before treatment, those with weak shells and other defects affecting their keeping quality can be eliminated. It pays to use only clean eggs which have not been washed, he points out.

ORCHARD GRASS SEED IN DEMAND

With a growing shortage and heavy demand for orchard grass seed, Adams county farmers should now select and prepare fields for harvesting a seed crop this year, Fred V. Grau, extension agronomist of the Pennsylvania State college, said today. In addition to assuring themselves and their neighbors of seed, good stands may return to the grower as much as $100 an acre, with heavy demands for domestic and export use. The second growth may be used for pasture or cut for hay, he added.

Harvesting of the seed is little different from cutting small grain with the binder and no more difficult if a few simple precautions are followed. Steps in preparing a field for maximum seed production and also improving the forage yield are: Select stands two or more years old since they produce more heavily than first-year stands; select only fields free from quack grass; provide proper fertilizer; remove by digging or cutting all dock before the crop comes to full bloom (early June); pay special attention to stands that are known to be 50 years old, even in small patches, since they have natural adaptation.

Fertilizer depends on the crop. If the stand is nearly pure orchard grass with little or no legume present, fertilize before May 15 with 30 pounds of nitrogen to the acre (200 pounds of nitrate of soda or 300 pounds of 10-6-4, or equivalent). If stand is about half orchard grass

Asks Attachment Of White's Purse

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP)—Luther (Sluggo) White, who lost a ten round bout last night to Ike Williams, was wondering today whether he was going to get paid for the job.

Maintain Weight Of Turkey Tom Breeders

Turkey toms should be maintained at their best weight during the breeding season for best breeding purposes, says P. H. Margolf, of the poultry husbandry staff of the Pennsylvania State college. There is a tendency for toms to lose weight during this season, and when they lose 20 per cent of their weight, their potency of fertility usually becomes dangerously low.

Toms kept away from hens for certain periods during the breeding season eat better and fret less and are likely to maintain better body weight. Alternating them, about a third of the time in breeding pens and two-thirds in the resting pens has been found beneficial.

Pennsylvania Hens Set New Records

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—April production records have been broken by Pennsylvania hens which laid 312 million eggs or 23 million more than in April 1943.

The state agriculture department also said today the April total exceeded that of March by 2 million eggs even though there were 708,000 or almost four per cent, fewer laying hens and pullets on farms in the state.

"Pennsylvania egg production," the report added, "during the first four months of this year was eight per cent greater than for the same period in 1943."

ALLIES UNITED ON CONTROL OF SLAVE NATIONS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, May 17 (AP) — Full Russian participation in political arrangements for the final military drives into Nazi-controlled Europe appear today to be an accomplished fact.

Ranking American diplomats regard the three-power collaboration thus achieved as a considerable step toward harmonious cooperation among the United States, Britain and Russia for creation of a permanent United Nations organization in the reasonably near future.

Disclosure of agreements between the Allied powers and the exiled governments of Norway, Belgium and the Netherlands for civil administration of their European areas furnished the latest example of Russian cooperation in pre-invasion diplomacy.

Civil Control
In the case of Norway the agreement was made jointly by this country, Russia and Britain. In the cases of Belgium and the Netherlands the arrangements were entered into by the U. S. and Britain with Russia specifically approving the actions.

In substance the agreements provide that the Allied Military commanders shall have full authority over civil affairs of invaded and liberated territories so long as required for war purposes, but as soon as the necessity no longer exists they must turn administration over to the respective governments.

The underlying policy still is that the peoples of the occupied countries shall have an opportunity to create their own governments, either accepting the exiled rulers or setting up new ones, as soon as possible after order is restored in Europe.

TEAMS OF TWO WILL GET DATA ON G-I VOTES

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP) — The State Department laid down questions today to be answered in the state-wide canvass to obtain lists of potential voters in the armed forces.

A recent special legislative session set up a model G-I vote program under which ballots automatically will be mailed every Pennsylvania in military service and auxiliary agencies.

The state Defense Council will direct the canvass. County chairmen will meet here May 23, to map plans for the drive on a military ballot day to be designed by Governor Martin—possibly July fourth.

The council announced plans provide for canvassing to be done by teams of two persons. Several county chairmen report organizations already set up and districts established for the work. Any organization may assist.

Data Needed
The State Department has ordered 1,200,000 forms printed for use in obtaining information for mailing of ballots. Deputy Secretary Samuel M. Jackson expressed belief probably not more than 70,000 will be used, however.

Here is what the Commonwealth wants to know about Pennsylvania G-I Joe:

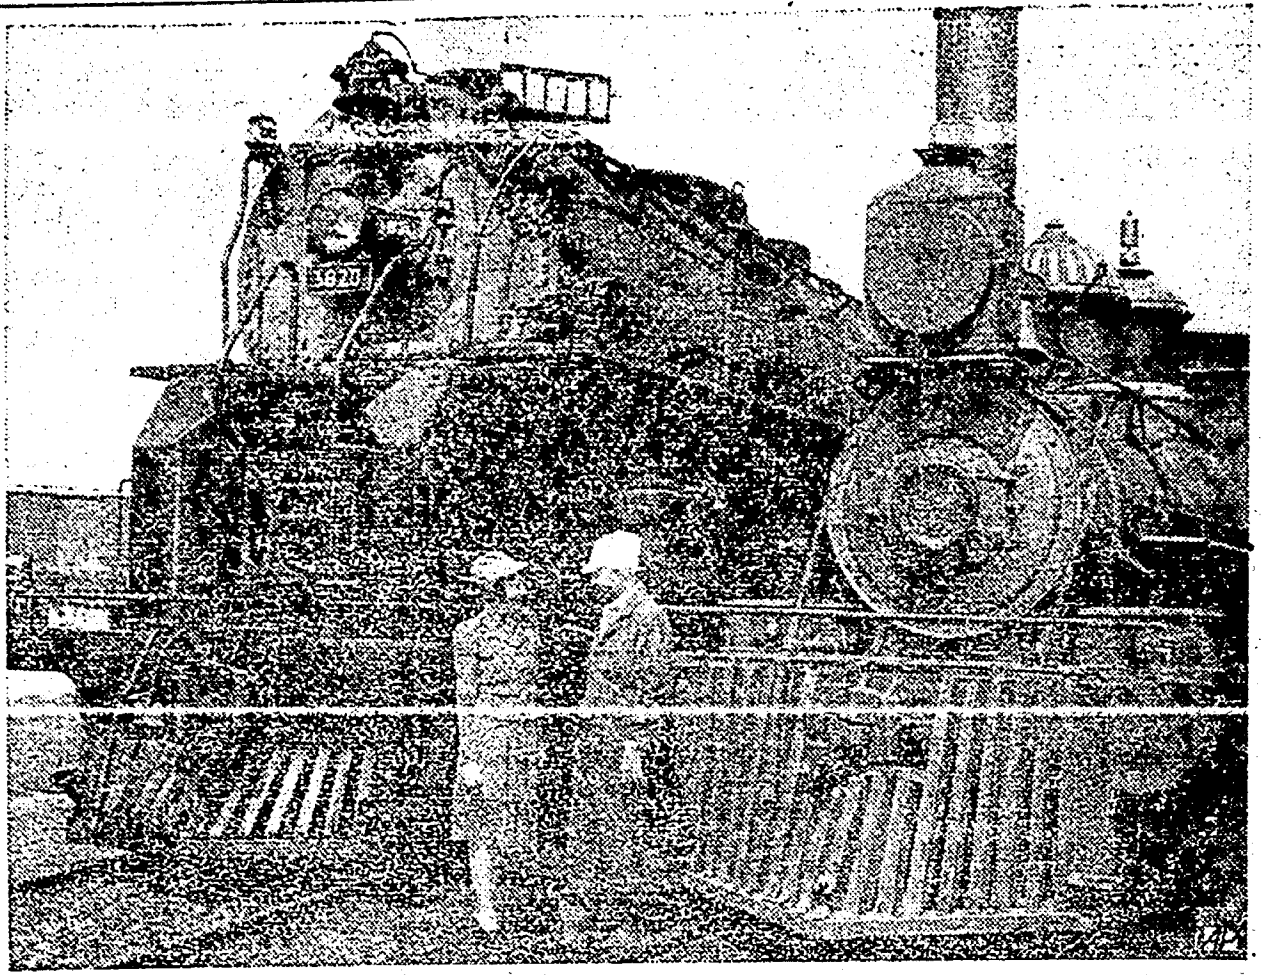

Voting district and county; full name; rank or grade, special number, date of birth; military address, including organization and APO number, if any; home address; how long a U. S. citizen, a Pennsylvania resident and a resident of voting district.

Canvassers must also note source of information and certify the data "is true and correct to the best of my knowledge."

ASKS CHANGE IN TREATY ACTION

By JAMES MARLOWE and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Representative Bloom (D-NY), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has tried to start a fire under the Senate hen house.

Like a chicken jealously monopolizing an egg because it's the only one of its kind, the Senate has been sitting stolidly on its gigantic power over treaties. No amount of criticism or nudges has been able to budge it.

Under the constitution the President approves treaties with foreign nations but those treaties must be submitted to the Senate for ratification which can come only by a vote of two-thirds of the members present.

Foreseeing the vast complications and responsibilities in and for the future in this nation's foreign affairs, Bloom wants two things:

1. He wants the House to share the Senate's treaty powers.
2. He wants ratification to be made possible by a majority vote of both houses instead of a two-thirds vote which is far harder to get.

At his own expense he has published 2,000 pamphlets explaining why he believes this step should be taken. Requests have tumbled in on him for copies so fast, Bloom says, that he is having another 5,000 printed.

Teachers Demand $240 Wage Raise

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP) — Penn township school teachers are ready to resign, according to a spokesman, unless their demands for a $240-a-year increase are met.

The teachers yesterday handed individual resignations to a committee which will present them in a block to the school board at its next meeting June 14 unless some agreement is reached on the salary question.

Spokesmen for the teachers said the number of resignations represented a majority of the township's 116 instructors. Efforts will be made to open negotiations with the school board before the next scheduled board meeting, Webster said.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE CRASHES; TEN OF CREW KILLED

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP) — A Navy training airship crashed into the huge hangar at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Training Station last night, killing six officers and four enlisted men and injuring an eleventh crew member, the Fourth Naval District announced here.

There was no fire, the Navy explained, because the ship—of the patrol training type—carried non-inflammable helium gas.

The dirigible crashed into the hangar when student pilots failed to clear the west end of the building during a practice take-off. The envelope ripped, causing the control car to crash 258 feet to a concrete runway, a Navy spokesman said.

An official announcement said the blimp was 250-feet long and carried 416,000 cubic feet of helium. Its crew consisted of six naval aviation officers and five enlisted men.

Names Withheld

Names of the casualties were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

The accident occurred on the same field on which the mammoth German zeppelin Hindenburg, filled with hydrogen, exploded in 1937, killing 31.

The Navy announcement said: "The airship was making a routine training flight—landings and takeoffs. The ships run over a landing mat and make a short run on their wheels and then they take off. This is done without a ground crew."

"During the takeoff, after landing, the student pilot failed to clear the hangar by 10 feet. The car crashed into the hangar, causing the envelope to rip . . ."

Yesterday he was granted permission to step out of line for a moment, he walked a few steps, broke into a run, leaped into a large and shiny station wagon and scooted past guards at the Navy Yard gate.

RAF MOSQUITOS BLAST BERLIN

London, May 17 (AP)—RAF Mosquito bombers blasted Berlin last night, the Air Ministry announced today, as the British-based heavy bomber fleets rested up for a renewal of their smashing offensive against Fortress Europe.

The raid, which was carried out without loss, was the first attack on Berlin since the night of May 9, when a great fleet of approximately 750 British bombers smashed at both the German capital and Paris. Last night's attack was carried out despite bad weather.

Britain, meanwhile, had a raid-free night as the German air force remained at home after two successive sharp night raids at the English south coast.

There was no indication of activity over the continent today as the weather, which has brought a lull in the Allied aerial offensive, continued poor.

Allied operations yesterday were restricted to offensive sweeps by fighters, during which one swarm of Canadian Mosquitos bagged seven enemy planes over northern Germany. One Allied plane was reported lost.

DEATH CLAIMS GEORGE ADE, 78

Brook, Ind., May 17 (AP)—George Ade, one of the nation's most famed authors and humorists and whose literary career extended over a half century, died last night at the age of 78. He had been in a comatose condition since last Saturday when he suffered his third heart attack within a week.

Ade had been ailing for almost a year.

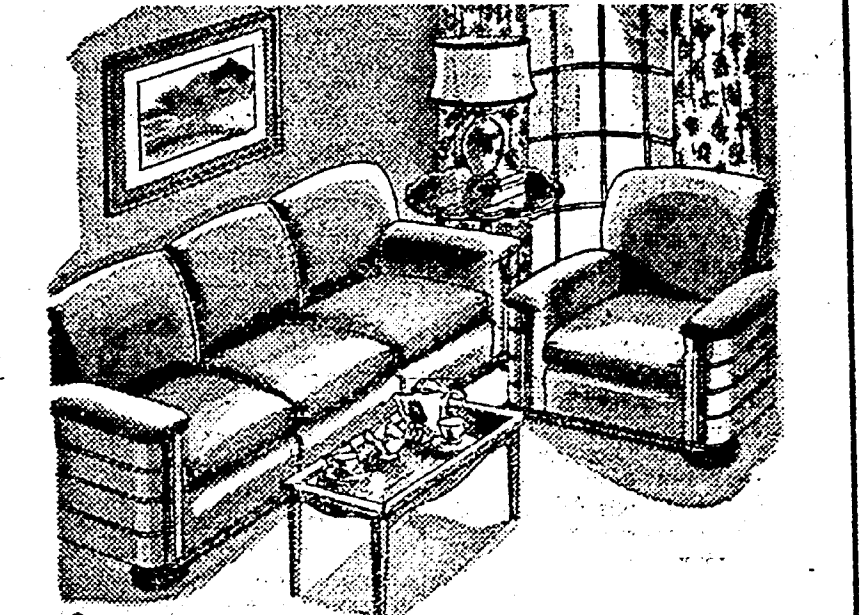

The Hoosier author, who once said his father sent him to an engineering school to prepare him for a literary career, was a most prolific writer in everything but gloom and the celebrated wit had played on the world's funnybone through several eral mediums—newspapers, magazines, books, plays and movies.

Ade was perhaps best known for his satirical "Fables in Slang," the first of which appeared in 1897, 10 years after his graduation from Purdue university, where the Ross-Ade stadium bears his name as a tribute to the many literary achievements.

An explosion of a lake steamer in Chicago harbor in 1893 gave Ade an assignment that established him as a top-ranking newspaperman. Later he went to work for the Chicago Record, where his foible-laden character sketches on "Artie," "Pink Marsh" and "Doc Horne" began appearing in 1895.

Ade wrote silent film scenarios from 1921 to 1925. He had never married and in one of his latest essays, "The Joys of Single Blessedness," he upheld the bachelorhood in no uncertain terms.

Washington, May 17 (AP) — Full Russian participation in political arrangements for the final military drives into Nazi-controlled Europe appear today to be an accomplished fact.

Ranking American diplomats regard the three-power collaboration thus achieved as a considerable step toward harmonious cooperation among the United States, Britain and Russia for creation of a permanent United Nations organization in the reasonably near future.

Disclosure of agreements between the Allied powers and the exiled governments of Norway, Belgium and the Netherlands for civil administration of their European areas furnished the latest example of Russian cooperation in pre-invasion diplomacy.

Civil Control

In the case of Norway the agreement was made jointly by this country, Russia and Britain. In the cases of Belgium and the Netherlands the arrangements were entered into by the U. S. and Britain with Russia specifically approving the actions.

In substance the agreements provide that the Allied Military commanders shall have full authority over civil affairs of invaded and liberated territories so long as required for war purposes, but as soon as the necessity no longer exists they must turn administration over to the respective governments.

The underlying policy still is that the peoples of the occupied countries shall have an opportunity to create their own governments, either accepting the exiled rulers or setting up new ones, as soon as possible after order is restored in Europe.

TEAMS OF TWO WILL GET DATA ON G-I VOTES

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP) — The State Department laid down questions today to be answered in the state-wide canvass to obtain lists of potential voters in the armed forces.

A recent special legislative session set up a model G-I vote program under which ballots automatically will be mailed every Pennsylvanian in military service and auxiliary agencies.

The state Defense Council will direct the canvass. County chairmen will meet here May 23, to map plans for the drive on a military ballot day to be designed by Governor Martin—possibly July fourth.

The council announced plans provide for canvassing to be done by teams of two persons. Several county chairmen report organizations already set up and districts established for the work. Any organization may assist.

Data Needed

The State Department has ordered 1,200,000 forms printed for use in obtaining information for mailing of ballots. Deputy Secretary Samuel M. Jackson expressed belief probably not more than 70,000 will be used, however.

Here is what the Commonwealth wants to know about Pennsylvania G-I Joe:

Voting district and county; full name; rank or grade, special number, date of birth; military address, including organization and APO number, if any; home address; how long a U. S. citizen, a Pennsylvania resident and a resident of voting district.

Canvassers must also note source of information and certify the data "is true and correct to the best of my knowledge."

ASKS CHANGE IN TREATY ACTION

By JAMES MARLOWE and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Representative Bloom (D-NY), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has tried to start a fire under the Senate hen house.

Like a chicken jealously monopolizing an egg because it's the only one of its kind, the Senate has been sitting stolidly on its gigantic power over treaties. No amount of criticism or nudges has been able to budge it.

Under the constitution the President approves treaties with foreign nations but those treaties must be submitted to the Senate for ratification which can come only by a vote of two-thirds of the members present.

Foreseeing the vast complications and responsibilities in and for the future in this nation's foreign affairs, Bloom wants two things.

1. He wants the House to share the Senate's treaty powers.

2. He wants ratification to be made possible by a majority vote of both houses instead of a two-thirds vote which is far harder to get.

At his own expense he has published 2,000 pamphlets explaining why he believes this step should be taken. Requests have tumbled in on him for copies so fast, Bloom says, that he is having another 5,000 printed.

Teachers Demand $240 Wage Raise

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP) — Penn township school teachers are ready to resign, according to a spokesman, unless their demands for a $240-a-year increase are met.

The teachers yesterday handed individual resignations to a committee which will present them in a block to the school board at its next meeting June 14 unless some agreement is reached on the salary question, said Raymond G. Webster, chairman of a teachers' committee.

Spokesmen for the teachers said the number of resignations represented a majority of the township's 116 instructors. Efforts will be made to open negotiations with the school board before the next scheduled board meeting, Webster said.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE CRASHES; TEN OF CREW KILLED

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP) — A Navy training airship crashed into the huge hangar at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Training Station last night, killing six officers and four enlisted men and injuring an eleventh crew member, the Fourth Naval District announced here.

There was no fire, the Navy explained, because the ship—the patrol training type—carried non-inflammable helium gas.

The dirigible crashed into the hangar when student pilots failed to clear the west end of the building during a practice take-off. The envelope ripped, causing the control car to crash 258 feet to a concrete runway, a Navy spokesman said.

An official announcement said the blimp was 250-feet long and carried 416,000 cubic feet of helium. Its crew consisted of six naval aviation officers and five enlisted men.

Names Withheld

Names of the casualties were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

The accident occurred on the same field on which the mammoth German zeppelin Hindenburg, filled with hydrogen, exploded in 1937, killing 31.

The Navy announcement said: "The airship was making a routine training flight—landing and takeoffs. The ships run over a landing mat and make a short run on their wheels and then they take off. This is done without a ground crew."

"During the takeoff, after landing, the student pilot failed to clear the hangar by 10 feet. The car crashed into the hangar, causing the envelope to rip."

Prisoner Makes Second Get-Away

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP)—Missing: A sailor-prisoner who likes to make get-aways in big and shiny cars.

On April 9, Frank J. Raffle, a fireman first class, fled from the Navy Yard brig here, where he was held on an AWOL charge, hopped into an admiral's elegant limousine and sped from the yard. Both Raffle and the car were found. The young sailor was court-martialed for the theft and assigned to a prisoners' work detail.

Yesterday he was granted permission to step out of line for a moment, he walked a few steps, broke into a run, leaped into a large and shiny station wagon and scooted past guards at the Navy Yard gate.

RAF MOSQUITOS BLAST BERLIN

London, May 17 (AP)—RAF Mosquito bombers blasted Berlin last night, the Air Ministry announced today, as the British-based heavy bomber fleets rested up for a renewal of their smashing offensive against Fortress Europe.

The raid, which was carried out without loss, was the first attack on Berlin since the night of May 9, when a great fleet of approximately 750 British bombers smashed at both the German capital and Paris. Last night's attack was carried out despite bad weather.

Britain, meanwhile, had a raid-free night as the German air force remained at home after two successive sharp night raids at the English south coast.

There was no indication of activity over the continent today as the weather, which has brought a lull in the Allied aerial offensive, continued poor.

Allied operations yesterday were restricted to offensive sweeps by fighters, during which one swarm of Canadian Mosquitos tagged seven enemy planes over northern Germany. One Allied plane was reported lost.

DEATH CLAIMS GEORGE ADE, 78

Brook, Ind., May 17 (AP)—George Ade, one of the nation's most famed authors and humorists and whose literary career extended over a half century, died last night at the age of 78. He had been in a comatose condition since last Saturday when he suffered his third heart attack within a week.

Ade had been ailing for almost a year.

The Hoosier author, who once said his father sent him to an engineering school to prepare him for a literary career, was a most prolific writer in everything but gloom and the celebrated wit had played on the world's funnybone through several mediums—newspapers, magazines, books, plays and movies.

Ade was perhaps best known for his satirical "Fables in Slang," the first of which appeared in 1897, 10 years after his graduation from Purdue university, where the Ross-Ade stadium bears his name as a tribute to the many literary achievements.

An explosion of a lake steamer in Chicago harbor in 1893 gave Ade an assignment that established him as a top-ranking newspaperman. Later he went to work for the Chicago Record, where his foible-laden character sketches on "Artie," "Pink Marsh" and "Doc Horne" began appearing in 1895.

Ade wrote silent film scenarios from 1921 to 1925.

He had never married and in one of his latest essays "The Joys of Single Blessedness," he upheld bachelorhood in no uncertain terms.

LOCAL CAPTAIN

generate into cowards and weaklings in a few generations."

"The sacrifices of our heroic few in the early days of the war threw the enemy timetable off schedule and gave our nations an opportunity to equip and train an invincible and irresistible force—invincible and irresistible because they fight with the spirit of free men, the spirit that will take us to the gates of Berlin and Tokyo."

Captain Hanson, who returns to duty today after a week-end at his home here, was the guest speaker for the annual program at the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution present the yearly essay contest prizes and the American history prizes to two members of the junior class.

Two Receive Prizes

Mrs. Rasmus S. Saby, regent of the chapter, presided and presented the $10 first prize in the senior essay contest to Miss Jeanne Bucher; and second prize of $5 to Miss Emily Weigle with honorable mention of the essays by the Misses Mary Clare Myers and Barbara Cline.

Miss Bucher read the winning essay to the assembly. The theme was "Serving on the Home Front." The assembly program, which takes the place of the May meeting of the DAR chapter, was witnessed by more than a score of chapter members who were platform guests.

The program opened with the singing of "America" led by Richard B. Shade, supervisor of music. Miss Barbara Cline, student in charge of the opening devotions, read a passage of scripture from the twelfth chapter of Ecclesiastes and Doctor Hanson offered prayer. Francis Steinhorn and Donald Doersom, in Boy Scout uniform, led the assembly in the pledge of allegiance.

Lauds Miss Cope

In her introductory remarks, Mrs. Saby paid tribute to the late Miss Helen Cope, who as chairman of the chapter's committee on National Defense through Patriotic Instruction, arranged the annual assembly programs and made preliminary arrangements for this morning's exercises before her last illness. "We pay tribute to her not only for her active interest in the work of the chapter but for her service to the boys and girls of Gettysburg and for the high example of Christian womanhood and citizenship she constantly placed before us."

Mrs. Saby then presented the essay prizes and announced Gloria Ecker as winner of the $3 American history prize among the juniors. Second prize of $2 went to William Sperry.

In introducing Captain Hanson, Mrs. Saby pointed out he was the first president of the Marsh Creek chapter of the Children of the American Revolution of Gettysburg. His mother, a former regent of the DAR chapter, also was on the platform.

After Captain Hanson's address, a girls' sextette sang "Song of Love," "Trees" and "The Bells of St. Mary." Mary Clare Myers was the accompanist. The exercises closed with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Ration Board Clerk Charged With Theft

Cleveland, May 17 (AP)—Robert A. Dissauer, clerk of Cuyahoga county's largest ration board, was charged in a federal warrant today with "feloniously purloining x x x 5,090 (gasoline) ration coupons and a ration book certificate representing 538,000 gallons of gasoline."

Assistant District Attorney Lee Howley said the charge resulted from an investigation of reports of defalcations of ration stamps at Ration Board No. 6.

STATE VOTES UNPLEGGED AS COURTESY MOVE

By WICK TEMPLE

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—Pennsylvania's powerful delegation will go to the Republican National convention uncommitted, a party spokesman disclosed today.

Organization chieftains decided to withhold pledging the state's 70 votes to any presidential possibility at next Saturday's initial meeting of delegates in Philadelphia.

The action was taken "as a courtesy" to the National Governors conference which Pennsylvania will entertain at Hershey on May 28-31. It was announced.

3 To Speak

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York polled more than 150,000 write-in votes in last month's presidential preference primary, prompting speculation he will get the state's support on the first convention ballots.

Dewey will address the governors conference along with Governors John W. Bricker of Ohio and Earl Warren of California, who also figure in GOP presidential talk.

Governor Martin has expressed opposition to selection of a candidate by delegates at their organization meeting, declaring "the question of getting on the bandwagon at the proper time shouldn't enter into it." He will be elected head of the delegation with Council President Frederick Garman of Philadelphia slated for secretary.

The meeting of delegates will follow the biennial session of the Republican State committee which will reorganize and formally launch the November election campaign.

BOOST HEEL PRICES

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The office of price administration today announced that retail ceiling prices for higher quality rubber heels sold in the home replacement trade will range from 15 to 30 cents a pair effective May 24. Current ceiling prices range from 10 to 15 cents a pair.

Reject Request For Attorney Fee

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—Allegheny county commissioners have unanimously rejected a request by Attorney John D. Meyer to pay fees totaling $2,300 to four attorneys who audited accounts of four closed banks under appointment by the late Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Previously, the state supreme court, which reversed all orders entered by Judge Smith in the case, had forbidden payment to the attorneys out of funds of the closed banks.

The attorneys then sought payment from the county on the contention that the commissioners were bound to supply the courts with all necessary supplies, equipment and services.

WILL EXCHANGE 900 PRISONERS

Barcelona, May 17 (AP)—Some 900 British and American prisoners of war and 700 German prisoners and civilians began filing down the gangplanks of the liners Gripsholm and Gradisca today in the second exchange through Spain since the war began.

The rails of the Swastika-flying Gradisca were brown with the uniforms of wounded American and British fighting men who mostly appeared to be in good health and in high spirits.

Two British generals and one air marshal headed the line coming off the Gradisca.

To reach the dock, the Gradisca came alongside the Swedish liner Gripsholm which brought the Germans from the United States, Britain and North Africa, and the Allied troops called greetings to the Germans. But the Germans were silent, apparently overawed by uniformed Nazi officials who paraded back and forth alongside the Gripsholm.

Many pretty American nurses at the rail of the Gripsholm more than made up for the German muteness, however.

Chapter 17

Cora took the path that led to the kitchen. She could not see the porch from there but she knew Zelda and Pete must be out there because she heard Zelda laugh. Sam and Eglantine were nowhere in sight. Cora emptied the berries into a shallow yellow bowl. Then she changed her mind and got two small blue plates and arranged the berries equally on these.

"There," she said. "One for Zelda—and one for Pete."

She stepped out onto the porch, and stopped, struck, for the instant, dumb.

There sat Zelda all in white, and radiant as a star, and by her side—with his shining, dark head bent close—sat the count!

"Well, scramble my eggs!" gasped Cora.

"Oh, Cora!" Zelda almost sang it, and her dark eyes danced with happiness. "Teddy found us. Imagine!"

"Miss Pettit," said Count Varanis, rising, "and as charming as ever."

"Huh!" said Cora. "How do you do?"

She put the plates on the table. "I brought these for you," she said pointedly to Zelda.

"You're an angel, Cora. And some for Teddy, too. Dig in, Teddy, and have your first taste of our wild berries."

Cora's nose, already pink with excitement, now became scarlet with rage. She felt she would burst if she had to watch the count eat the berries she had gathered.

"I think," she said, "I'll go look for Pete."

But that excuse for an exit was denied her when Pete appeared in the doorway. His face was strained and white. Deep, dark circles were under his eyes. He seemed to see only Zelda.

"I've done it!" he said hoarsely and smiled a crooked smile. "I've finished my symphony. It's done." He leaned against the doorway. "I think it's good, Zelda. I think it's okay."

"Oh, Pete!" said Zelda, too intent on her own happiness to think of anything else. "You remember Count Varanis. He found me way up here in the mountains. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Why—yes," said Pete, and what little color he had, drained from his face.

The count arose and extended his hand. "Glad to see you again," he said smoothly.

"Thanks," said Pete. "I hope you'll excuse me. I'll see you later."

He turned and went into the house. Cora followed him.

"Pete," she said, "Pete, don't mind. She just didn't think. She's excited. She's really awfully interested in your music. And I'm awfully glad too, Pete. I don't know a great deal about such things—but I do know a thing or two about you—and if you think it's good, I'll bet it is."

Pete grabbed her and hugged her. "Thanks, old girl," he said. "I can always depend on you, can't I? If you were ten years younger I'd ## elope with you tomorrow. I will anyway if you'll bob your hair."

"Stop it!" commanded Cora. But there was no stopping Pete now.

He lifted Cora despite her struggles and carried her across the room.

"Sit there," he said, and dumped her on top of the piano. "Now listen."

Then he played. He played like a demon. He played like an angel. He sang. He went through the entire symphony he had been working on for months and had just completed.

Sam and Eglantine appeared in the doorway, their eyes rolling and their teeth flashing.

Pete finally finished—with a flourish. His audience shared his ecstasy.

"Lord bless us," said Eglantine. "I never heard nothin' like it."

"Me neither," agreed Sam, and he went to prepare a julep for the genius.

"Pete, it is great," exclaimed Cora. She slid from the piano and went to the door.

"I guess they've gone for a walk," she told Pete, indicating the empty porch.

"The devil with them!" said Pete, and gathering up his note books, he went to his room.

Cora followed his example and sought the seclusion of her bedroom. Slowly she

War Fund Group Will Fix Quotas

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—The Pennsylvania War Fund, Inc., which directs the raising of funds for national war fund for United Service organizations and war relief agencies, met here today to elect officers and directors and fix the 1944 state quota.

Speakers on the program of the meeting included Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation and chairman of the Special Gifts committee of the 1943 National War Fund campaign, and Dr. Ethel M. Colton, of War Prisoners Aid.

Mrs. Frederic E. Griest, chairman of the canteen committee of the local USO, attended the meeting.

URGES SPECIAL SPRAY FOR MOTH

Because the warm weather has allowed the codling moth to develop in unusual numbers, Adams County Farm Agent M. T. Hartman, in consultation with J. O. Pepper, extension entomologist, today urged fruit growers to use a special codling moth spray for tree tops only to combat the rapid increase in the pest.

Codling moth adults have emerged in great numbers since May 12, Mr. Hartman stated. In ten bail pails hung in tops of trees 90 moths were taken on the night of May 14 and 278 moths on the night of May 15. The temperatures at sundown have been sufficiently high to stimulate egg laying. Growers were urged to start using the special spray immediately and to have all tree tops covered by May 21.

"The moth activity and egg laying at this time is in the tree tops. The unusual temperatures causing such codling moth activities necessitates a coverage of apple tree tops by May 21. Spray only the tree tops at this time so as to make time and get over all your orchard at once. Nicotine listed for the spray is very important to kill as many adult moths as possible before they lay all their eggs. The rapidly growing fruits will require another coverage in a few days and a notice of the first all-over tree cover spray will be sent soon.

"The special spray is only for the tree tops and in orchards with a codling moth problem," it was stated. The spray recommended includes for each 100 gallons of spray, three pounds of lead arsenate, one-quarter pound of soybean flour, three pounds of hydrated lime and one pint of nicotine sulphate.

Ousted Priest Is Restored To Charge

Springfield, Mass., May 17 (AP)—With his pastoral authority restored following a promise to "cease and separate myself from all activities which are not in accord with the rule and mind of the Catholic church," ailing Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski today was cheered by the announced support of the American Slav Congress of Connecticut.

Ben Tutens, executive secretary of the organization which he said represented "thousands of American Slaves" in Connecticut, praised Fr. Orlemanski for his recent visit to the Kremlin and denounced certain local critics for their attitude in the matter. In a statement released by Tutens, Fr. Orlemanski's flying trip to Moscow where he twice conferred with Marshal Stalin, was termed "one of the milestones on the road to the new world which humanity is striving for day after day in its life and death struggle against the common foe."

Meanwhile Fr. Orlemanski remained in bed under the care of his physician who on Monday reported the priest as being "on the verge of a complete physical and mental breakdown."

FDR Announces Cut In War Expenditures

Washington, May 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt's announcement that war expenditures for the next fiscal year will be cut back a net of $4,800,000,000 under January estimates brought cheer today to a Congress having election year worries over high taxes and the mounting national debt.

The President's disclosure that better coordination between procurement and operating plans plus less-than-anticipated losses had contributed to the reduction in outlays was applauded by almost all legislators, but Republicans said the reductions had not gone far enough.

Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), a member of the Appropriations Committee, called the pruning of the war estimates "a step in the right direction," but added:

"I think even more careful planning and the elimination of waste would bring expenditures down even more without affecting the vigorous prosecution of the war."

PACIFIC JAPS SLASHED WITH AERIAL BLOWS

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, May 17 (AP)—A sledge-hammer blow by Army, Navy and Marine planes at Jaluit—Washington reports suggested it might signal a mop-up of by-passed Japanese garrisons in the Marshalls—stood out today in the pattern of Pacific war traced by latest advances over a 4,000-mile arc.

The 240-ton bombing occurred during the same 24-hour period that Nipponese on Dutch New Guinea were undergoing their third straight day of heavy aerial attack and others in the cold Kuriles were being hit by a single Navy search plane.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who has been announcing almost daily moderate air assaults on the few bases left to the Japanese in the mid-Pacific Marshalls, disclosed the unleashing of a terrific punch Sunday (Monday, Marshalls time) at long isolated Jaluit.

Fly 284 Sorties
The raiders flew 284 sorties. They attacked as low as 50 feet, with Mitchells adding cannon fire and fighters machinegun strafing to the deadly work of the bombs. Nimitz said eight raiders were damaged by anti-aircraft fire but all returned safely.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today announced that 200 more tons of bombs were added Monday to the 550 tons dropped the previous two days on enemy defenses at Wakde island and the adjacent Dutch New Guinea coast, 110 miles northwest of Hollandia.

He also reported air blows for the twelfth straight day in the Schouten islands, 250 miles beyond Hollandia, where Allied fighters emerged unscathed from a battle in which they shot down five of 20 enemy interceptors.

Yesterday at Pearl Harbor, Nimitz bestowed the Navy Cross on Rear Adm. W. D. Baker, commander of a cruiser division which shelled the northern Kuriles last February and remarked:

"Admiral Baker's force gave the Japanese the first of many bad moments which are in store for them in their northern island chain."

Fatally Injured
When Hit By Truck

Wattsburg, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Guy Rouse, Jr., 51, was killed last night when a truck hit him while he stood in the road conversing with friends in an automobile.

The truck also struck the car, but none of the occupants was injured. Rouse was dragged about 50 feet along the roadside. He was a well-known Erie county farmer, and leaves his widow and three children.

The greatest depth in the Atlantic ocean (30,246 feet) is north of Puerto Rico.

MISSION RALLY IS SET FOR HANOVER

The annual Congress of the Group B Missionary Societies of the West Pennsylvania Conference of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America will be replaced this year with two rallies, it has been announced. The one for York and Adams counties will be conducted Saturday afternoon in St. Matthew's Lutheran church, Hanover, the Rev. Dr. Harry Hursh Beldeman, pastor, and the other for the Cumberland Valley will be held Sunday afternoon in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Carlisle.

The program, which is the same for both rallies, will open at 2:30 p. m. and will be based on the theme, "For A Time As This." Miss Mae Rohlf, missionary to China who returned recently on the Grips-holm and Miss Selma R. Bergner, promotional secretary for the Women's Society of the United Lutheran Church in America, will address the groups. Tea will be served by the hostesses societies.

The officers of the Congress are: President, Mrs. Robert W. Koons, York; vice president, Mrs. Walter Eisenhart, York; secretary, Miss Betty Budd Hill, Chambersburg; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Neff, York; secretary of York county, Mrs. Roy Kauffman, Spring Grove; secretary for Adams county, Miss Mildred R. Coshun, Gettysburg; secretary for Cumberland Valley, Miss Helen V. Stahl, New Cumberland. Advisors, Mrs. A. R. Wentz, Gettysburg, and Mrs. G. G. Neely, York.

LARRY ALLEN IS FREED BY NAZIS

Barcelona, Spain, May 17 (AP)—Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent and Pulitzer prize winner, was exchanged today after 20 months as a war prisoner of the Italians and Germans.

Allen was assigned to the British Mediterranean fleet and was captured Sept. 13, 1942, during a Commando raid on Tobruk in North Africa when the destroyer Sikh, on which he was travelling, was sunk. He was taken to an Italian prison camp near Chieti and later fell into German hands after the Italian armistice. The Germans held him in a prison camp in northwestern Poland.

Before his capture he had covered many battles at sea, including a particularly heavy air attack on the carrier Illustrious in January of 1941. The cruiser Galatea sank under him the following September as he had a narrow brush with death. His reporting of the war at sea won him the Pulitzer prize for 1941.

He is a native of Mt. Savage, Md., and joined the Associated Press in 1933. Previously he served on the Baltimore News and on newspapers at Washington, Portsmouth, Ohio, and Huntington, W. Va. He is 36. He was among 900 American and British war prisoners exchanged for 700 Germans.

ALLIES POUND JAPANESE ON
BROAD FRONTBy RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ

From Burma in the west to China's Salween river in the east, Allied troops and air power hammered away at the Japanese in a coordinated offensive to reopen the old Burma road, and in northern China, a third position on the Peiping-Hankow railroad has been recaptured by Chinese troops.

China's Central News Agency said Japanese invaders are being furiously opposed in the ancient city of Loyang, west of the Peiping-Hankow railroad. The Japanese had been driven out of Loyang once, but a second break-through occurred Monday.

Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th U. S. Airforce pounded enemy concentrations blocking China's westward drive from Yunnan province, and at the same time ranged far and wide to hit targets in the Yangtze river basin and far south in Thailand.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's American and Chinese jungle fighters sliced through a main road leading to the North Burma base of Kamaing and are tightening their pocket enclosing enemy troops in the Mogaung-Mytikina area. Mytikina is the terminus of a supply railroad from Mandalay.

Thundering aerial blows at two important Japanese bases highlighted the war in the Pacific. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced a 240-ton smash at isolated enemy troops on Jaluit Atoll in the Marshall islands, possibly the prelude to an all-out campaign to exterminate Nipponese hopelessly cut off from their supply bases when American forces gained control of the Marshalls last February.

Other planes hammered away at Shumushu in the far-north Kurile islands and at Pulawat airstrip in the Carolines.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen spread another 200 tons of explosives over the Wakde island—Sarmi sector of Dutch New Guinea. At least 750 tons of bombs have smashed the area in three consecutive days.

The Schouten islands west of Wakde were bombed for the 12th straight day. Five of 20 interceptors were shot down.

Newark, N. J., May 17 (AP)—New Jersey's 35-member delegation to the Republican national convention will be dominated by Gov. Walter E. Edge, who has promised that it will "push" Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the presidency, but has refused to pledge its votes to the New Yorker.

War Fund Group Will Fix Quotas

Harrisburg, May 17 (AP)—The Pennsylvania War Fund, Inc., which directs the raising of funds for national war fund for United Service organizations and war relief agencies, met here today to elect officers and directors and fix the 1944 state quota.

Speakers on the program of the meeting included Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation and chairman of the Special Gifts committee of the 1943 National War Fund campaign, and Dr. Ethan T. Colton, of War Prisoners Aid.

URGES SPECIAL SPRAY FOR MOTH

Because the warm weather has allowed the codling moth to develop in unusual numbers, Adams County Farm Agent M. T. Hartman, in consultation with J. O. Pepper, extension entomologist, today urged fruit growers to use a special codling moth spray for tree tops only to combat the rapid increase in the pest.

Codling moth adults have emerged in great numbers since May 12, Mr. Hartman stated. In ten bait pails hung in tops of trees 90 moths were taken on the night of May 14 and 278 moths on the night of May 15. The temperatures at sundown have been sufficiently high to stimulate egg laying. Growers were urged to start using the special spray immediately and to have all tree tops covered by May 21.

"The moth activity and egg laying at this time is in the tree tops. The unusual temperatures causing such codling moth activities necessitates a coverage of apple tree tops by May 21. Spray only the tree tops at this time so as to make time and get over all your orchard at once. Nicotine listed for the spray is very important to kill as many adult moths as possible before they lay all their eggs. The rapidly growing fruits will require another coverage in a few days and a notice of the first all-over tree cover spray will be sent soon.

"The special spray is only for the tree tops and in orchards with a codling moth problem," it was stated. The spray recommended includes for each 100 gallons of spray, three pounds of lead arsenate, one-quarter pound of soybean flour, three pounds of hydrated lime and one pint of nicotine sulphate.

Ousted Priest Is Restored To Charge

Springfield, Mass., May 17 (AP)—With his pastoral authority restored following a promise to "cease and separate myself from all activities which are not in accord with the rule and mind of the Catholic church," ailing Rev. Stanislaus Orlowski today was cheered by the announced support of the American Slav Congress of Connecticut.

Ben Tutens, executive secretary of the organization which he said represented "thousands of American Slavs" in Connecticut, praised Fr. Orlowski for his recent visit to the Kremlin and denounced certain local critics for their attitude in the matter.

In a statement released by Tutens, Fr. Orlowski's flying trip to Moscow where he twice conferred with Marshal Stalin, was termed "one of the milestones on the road to the new world which humanity is striving for day after day in its life and death struggle against the common foe."

Meanwhile Fr. Orlowski remained in bed under the care of his physician who on Monday reported the priest as being "on the verge of a complete physical and mental breakdown."

FDR Announces Cut In War Expenditures

Washington, May 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt's announcement that war expenditures for the next fiscal year will be cut back a net of $4,800,000,000 under January estimates brought cheer today to a Congress having election year worries over high taxes and the mounting national debt.

The President's disclosure that better coordination between procurement and operating plans plus less-than-anticipated losses had contributed to the reduction in outlays was applauded by almost all legislators, but Republicans said the reductions had not gone far enough.

Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), a member of the Appropriations Committee, called the pruning of the war estimates "a step in the right direction," but added:

"I think even more careful planning and the elimination of waste would bring expenditures down even more without affecting the vigorous prosecution of the war."

HEADS RESTAURANTEURS

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—The Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association at its annual session here elected James Petrolis of Pittsburgh as president.

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Ernest L. Jackson, professional wrestler, lost a diamond ring last January. He found it today—in a trouser cuff.

PACIFIC JAPS SLASHED WITH AERIAL BLOWS

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, May 17 (AP)—A sledge-hammer blow by Army, Navy and Marine planes at Jaluit—Washington reports suggested it might signal a mop-up of by-passed Japanese garrisons in the Marshalls—stood out today in the pattern of Pacific war traced by latest advices over a 4,000-mile arc.

The 240-ton bombing occurred during the same 24-hour period that Nipponese on Dutch New Guinea were undergoing their third straight day of heavy aerial attack and others in the cold Kuriles were being hit by a single Navy search plane.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who has been announcing almost daily moderate air assaults on the few bases left to the Japanese in the mid-Pacific Marshalls, disclosed the unleashing of a terrific punch Sunday (Monday, Marshalls time) at long isolated Jaluit.

Fly 284 Sorties

The raiders flew 284 sorties. They attacked as low as 50 feet, with Mitchells adding cannon fire and fighters machinegun strafing to the deadly work of the bombs. Nimitz said eight raiders were damaged by anti-aircraft fire but all returned safely.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today announced that 200 more tons of bombs were added Monday to the 550 tons dropped the previous two days on enemy defenses at Wakde island and the adjacent Dutch New Guinea coast, 10 miles northwest of Hollandia.

He also reported air blows for the twelfth straight day in the Schouten islands, 250 miles beyond Hollandia, where Allied fighters emerged unscathed from a battle in which they shot down five of 20 enemy interceptors.

Yesterday at Pearl Harbor, Nimitz bestowed the Navy Cross on Rear Adm. W. D. Baker, commander of a cruiser division which shelled the northern Kuriles last February and remarked:

"Admiral Baker's force gave the Japanese the first of many bad moments which are in store for them in their northern island chain."

Fatally Injured When Hit By Truck

Wattsburg, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Guy Rouse, Jr., 51, was killed last night when a truck hit him while he stood in the road conversing with friends in an automobile.

The truck also struck the car, but none of the occupants was injured. Rouse was dragged about 50 feet along the roadside. He was a well-known Erie county farmer, and leaves his widow and three children.

The greatest depth in the Atlantic ocean (30,246 feet) is north of Puerto Rico.

ALLIES POUND JAPANESE ON BROAD FRONT

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Editor

From Burma in the west to China's Salween river in the east, Allied troops and air power hammered away at the Japanese in a coordinated offensive to reopen the old Burma road, and in northern China, a third position on the Peiping-Hankow railroad has been recaptured by Chinese troops.

China's Central News Agency said Japanese invaders are being furiously opposed in the ancient city of Loyang, west of the Peiping-Hankow railroad. The Japanese had been driven out of Loyang once, but a second break-through occurred Monday.

Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th U. S. Airforce pounded enemy concentrations blocking China's westward drive from Yunnan province, and at the same time ranged far and wide to hit targets in the Yangtze river basin and far south in Thailand.

Silwell Advances

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's American and Chinese jungle fighters sliced through a main road leading to the North Burma base of Kamaing and are tightening their pocket enclosing enemy troops in the Mogaung-Myitkyina area. Myitkyina is the terminus of a supply railroad from Mandalay.

Thundering aerial blows at two important Japanese bases highlighted the war in the Pacific. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced a 240-ton smash at isolated enemy troops on Jaluit Atoll in the Marshall islands, possibly the prelude to an all-out campaign to exterminate Nipponese hopelessly cut off from their supply bases when American forces gained control of the Marshalls last February.

Other planes hammered away at Shumushu in the far-north Kurile islands and at Pulawat airstrip in the Carolines.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen spread another 200 tons of explosives over the Wakde island-Sarmi sector of Dutch New Guinea. At least 750 tons of bombs have smashed the area in three consecutive days.

The Schouten islands west of Wakde were bombed for the 12th straight day. Five of 20 interceptors were shot down.

WILL "PUSH" DEWEY

Newark, N. J., May 17 (AP)—New Jersey's 35-member delegation to the Republican national convention will be dominated by Gov. Walter E. Edge, who has promised that it will "push" Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the presidency, but has refused to pledge its votes to the New Yorker.

LARRY ALLEN IS FREED BY NAZIS

Barcelona, Spain, May 17 (AP)—Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent and Pulitzer prize winner, was exchanged today after 20 months as a war prisoner of the Italians and Germans.

Allen was assigned to the British Mediterranean fleet and was captured Sept. 13, 1942, during a Commando raid on Tobruk in North Africa when the destroyer Sikh, on which he was travelling, was sunk. He was taken to an Italian prison camp near Chieti and later fell into German hands after the Italian armistice. The Germans held him in a prison camp in northwestern Poland.

Before his capture he had covered many battles at sea, including a particularly heavy air attack on the carrier Illustrious in January of 1941. The cruiser Galatea sank under him the following September when he had a narrow brush with death. His reporting of the war at sea won him the Pulitzer prize for 1941.

He is a native of Mt. Savage, Md., and joined the Associated Press in 1933. Previously he served on the Baltimore News and on newspapers at Washington, Portsmouth, Ohio, and Huntington, W. Va. He is 36. He was among 900 American and British war prisoners exchanged for 700 Germans.
